JAPS STONED BY COAST MOB

Citizens Near Tacoma, Angered at Roosevelt's Message, Drive Aliens from Work and Threaten to Shoot Them if They Return.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 5.—The anger of the Pacific slope over the Japanese question, inflamed by the threat in the President's message in behalf of the Orientals, is manifested in violent form to-day at Adler, near here, where dozens of Japanese were set upon by a furious mob, beaten with clubs and threatened with death.

Japs Are Beaten and Stoned.

The Japanese were taken to Adler to be put to work on a big job. Indignant citizens immediately held a mass-meeting and resolved to drive them from town. Arming themselves with clubs and stones they lost no time in attacking the Japs, beating and kicking them unmercifully.

The Orientals, many of them badly injured, fled down the railroad track, the train that brought them having departed. They were told that they would be shot if they dared to return.

FEAR FURTHER TROUBLE.

The employers of the Japanese will ask the sheriff of the county to send deputies to Adler to protect the Orientals, and as the whole town is aroused bloodshed is feared.

Officers are investigating and arrests will probably be made.

A meeting of the citizens of Adrie has been called in the public hall of the town, and the leaders express determination to keep the Japanese out of the place, whatever the cost.

$340,336.99 AWARD TO WESTMINSTER HOTEL

CITY OF BOSTON ASSESSED FOR GREAT SUM IN FAMOUS BACK BAY BUILDING CASE.

After long and continued litigation, a verdict of $340,336.99 was returned to-day against the city of Boston by a jury in the first session of the Superior Civil Court, Judge Holmes presiding, in the famous Westminster Chambers suit.

This verdict settled the Westminster Chambers contest, action having been brought by Henry B. Williams et al., trustees, against the city of Boston for compelling the proprietors of the Westminster Chambers, in Copley square, to comply with the building regulations of the city and take off one story from the original height of the Back Bay hotel. The one story was taken off. Then the trustees of the hotel sought damages.

The jury awarded $299,931.10 to the owners and $40,405.88 to Woodbury & Leighton, builders of the hotel.

To-day's verdict completed the second trial of the Westminster Hotel suit. In the first trial, Judge Schofield presiding, a verdict of $481,970 was awarded, but Judge Schofield reduced the damages to $355,727. Corporation Counsel Babson, for the city of Boston, took exception to the first trial verdict, and after arguing the case before the Supreme Court, a new trial was granted. The second trial lasted two weeks.

SAY M'CARTHY WILL RETAIN SURVEYOR'S JOB

The friends of Colonel Jeremiah J. McCarthy, the Surveyor of the Port, are so confident that they have headed off the attempt to prevent his reappointment by President Roosevelt that they will give him a banquet to-morrow night at the Tuilleries.

Joshua B. Holden, chairman of the Charles River Dam Commission, when asked to-day by a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter if his friend was to be turned down, said:

"I don't take any stock in the story. 'Jerry' has made a good official, and no doubt will be reappointed when the time comes. He has made a good record in his office."

Notwithstanding the Damon and Pythias loyalty of these two well-known Republicans, there is down deep in the hearts of some other Republicans a ravenous desire to get the surveyor's job. They argue he has had eight years of it and want to pass it around. There is a salary of $5,000 a year to the job and a revenue cutter at his disposal.

Surveyor McCarthy has been prominent in Republican politics for over a quarter of a century. He has done the "truck horse" work for the leaders in all kinds of weather, and helped out the Republican party on Beacon Hill immensely as a legislator for seven years. His strength as a political leader was shown by the fact that every year he was elected as a full-fledged Republican from a Democratic district. Senator Lodge is his personal and political friend, and the reason for this is that it is of a reciprocal nature.

Senator Daniel W. Lane, recent candidate for Congress, is being boomed for the place, and when his name was mentioned people wondered where Commissioner Holden would stand in view of the friendly relations between Lane and Holden. Then other names have been suggested, among them being Assistant-Secretary James B. Reynolds and Colonel E. C. Mansfield of the State Committee, but Colonel McCarthy's friends are alive to the movement to oust him and it is expected, as the position is a senatorial courtesy, that Senator Lodge will name his old-time friend again.

The argument used against Surveyor McCarthy is that he has had two terms, but his friends turn around and ask "How about Lyman and Hibbard? Are they not doing a continuous performance act?"

At all events the dinner to-morrow night will settle the whole business.

AWAIT COURT DECISION ON MAYORALTY

Cambridge politicians flocked to the equity session of the Supreme Court to-day and sat there for hours, expecting Judge Morton to decide whether James F. Aylward or Charles H. Thurston is to be the mayoralty nominee of the Democratic party of Cambridge at the approaching election.

It was the resumed hearing of the petition of Mayor Thurston to compel the Board of Registers of voters in Cambridge to attend their recent recount according to which, at the Democratic primaries, Mr. Aylward was declared to be the nominee for Mayor by a single vote.

After several fluctuations in the count, the result was officially announced as 2,641 votes for Aylward and 2,640 for Thurston.

Ten Disputed Ballots.

The number of votes in dispute has been agreed upon as ten. The disputed ballots were produced in court to-day. Thurston claims that three of them were counted for Aylward, when they should have been counted for himself. Two others Aylward claims were counted wrongfully for Thurston. The other five are admittedly Thurston ballots, but counsel for Aylward sets up the claim that they were voted illegally by enrolled Republicans.

The three alleged Republicans who voted at the Democratic primaries are William W. Emery, No. 18 Hilliard street; Frank Milligan, 184 Concord street, and William Cooley, No. 171 Mount Auburn street.

J. Frank Facey, chairman of the board of registrars, produced the voting lists, which showed that Emery, Milligan and Cooley, though enrolled as Republicans, had voted at the Democratic primaries.

George Fred Williams appeared for Mr. Aylward at the hearing. Edmund A. Whitman looked after the interests of Mayor Thurston.

Declare They Are Democrats.

Emery went on the witness stand and testified that he held a city office, was appointed by a Republican Mayor, General Bancroft, but was not a Republican.

"You say you are not a Republican?" asked Mr. Williams.

"If John B. Moran is a Republican I voted for him," answered Emery, raising a laugh in which the court joined.

"Well, Mr. Moran had several parties, you know," added Mr. Williams, and there was more laughter.

Milligan and Cooley similarly testified that in spite of the voting lists they were true Democrats.

Arizona Town Almost Wiped Away; Report

60 KILLED IN FLOOD

Concentrator Dam on River Breaks Down and Waters Sweep Buildings Off.

CLIFTON, Ari., Dec. 5.—From twenty to sixty lives are reported lost and inestimable damage to property has resulted from a disastrous flood here. The water came down the San Francisco River and Chase Creek with a rush late yesterday afternoon. The principal business section of the city was wrecked and many buildings were destroyed and swept into the streets by the flood. There is hardly a building in town which was not damaged to some extent.

The Copper Queen Hotel has been swept away.

The concentrator dam which gave way, hurling the flood upon the town, was constructed entirely of earth. The dam was carried away two years ago as a result of the swollen streams, and many were drowned.

Death Reports Conflicting.

Reports of deaths are conflicting, but it is known that several lives were lost. The only name yet learned, however, of a flood victim is that of Mrs. Joseph Throm.

Throm and two children were pulled from their wrecked home by rescuers, but the building collapsed before Mrs. Throm could be taken out.

The greatest damage was done in North Clinton, where several stores and residences were washed down. Pattison's addition was almost wiped out. East Clinton also suffered greatly. The least damage was done in the south part of the city, but even here several buildings were washed down.

One saloon building was washed away. Several men were inside at the time, and it is feared all were drowned. A man, woman and child whose names are unknown, were lost in a small restaurant which was carried away and smashed to pieces. A number of small buildings in which people were known to be living were destroyed, and it is believed all perished.

The works of the Arizona Copper Company were badly damaged, and several buildings were swept away. From Clifton to Longfellow the Coronado railroad has been completely destroyed. Great damage was inflicted on the Detroit and Shannon copper concentrators.

A sudden rise in the Gila River, caused by heavy snows and rains in the last two weeks, was responsible for the flood.

WOMAN CALLS JURY NAMES

Miss Barbara Manley, who attained considerable prominence in the East as a Boston representative in one of the New York beauty shows and feminine culture contests, to-day gave a superior court jury a terrific tongue-lashing for returning a verdict of guilty against her on a charge of larceny of $1,200 from an Italian in the West End. The verdict also included Harry F. Cronin, who was charged jointly with her with the same offence.

As soon as the word "Guilty" was pronounced, Barbara leaned forward in the dock, shook her yellow tresses at the jurymen and screamed out a vitriolic list of epithets.

She was lugged out of the room by the scandalized court officers before Judge Sherman had time to say anything.

BOY FALLS THROUGH TRAP DOOR; MAY DIE

BURLINGTON, Vt., Dec. 5.—Fred Crane, aged seventeen, who fell through a trap door at the Strong Theatre, is unconscious and it is feared will die.

CHILD PLEADS FOR WOMAN SHOPLIFTER

SIX-YEAR-OLD DENIES MRS. LALLEY TAUGHT HER TO STEAL, AS JUDGE SAID.

With a pathetic little lisp in her childish voice, six-year-old Elizabeth Curran peered over the rail in Roxbury District Court at Judge Williams, to-day, and stoutly denied that Mrs. Julia L. Lalley, adjudged guilty of shoplifting, had taught her to steal a pitiful collection of small wares which the child admitted having taken.

Mrs. Lalley, a small, well dressed woman, lives at No. 18 Gardner street, Roxbury. Judge Williams said:

"I find Mrs. Lalley guilty and fine her $15, and I am sure she has been training this child to steal, too."

Mrs. Lalley paid her fine.

The girl's mother died six years ago and Mrs. Lalley took her home to live with the Lalleys. According to the testimony of Mrs. Mildred Cooper, store detective in a big Roxbufy establishment, the two stole small articles from the store last Saturday night. The girl had a big shopping bag. When they were taken into a retiring room and questioned the girl said that Mrs. Lalley did not steal anything and did not know that she had. She stuck to the same story in court.

"I went to Smith's with Mrs. Lalley and carried the bag," she said. "I first took a spool of thread."

"What for?" asked Special Officer Gilbert Angell, who had made the arrest at the store.

"To thew dollie clo's," lisped the girl.

"We went to the boys' counter," continued the girl, "and I took a pair of boys' pants. Then I took a girl's undershirt and vest. Mrs. Lalley bought a package of picture cards and two handkerchiefs boxes."

"Did Mrs. Lalley know you took the things," she was asked.

"No, thir," came the lisping voice; "Mitthis Lalley didn't tell me to. An' she didn't know I took 'em."

Before pronouncing sentence, Judge Willams said that he would only impose a light fine on account of Mrs. Lalley's family and the absence of any record against her.

MRS. GUILD MUCH BETTER

Governor Guild felt so much encouraged over the condition of his wife, who is suffering from the grippe and appendicitis, that to-day he went with the Executive Council on a visit to the State institutions at Gardner. Mrs. Guild's condition is improving so much that it will be only a few days before she will have sufficient strength to stand an operation necessary for appendicitis.

WOMEN SCREAM AS BOY IS HURT

While scores of persons looked on, many of them women shoppers, who screamed with fright, Charles Cardio, a sixteen-year-old boy of No. 31 Cooper street, was to-day run over by a market wagon on Boylston street, directly in front of the Hotel Touraine. The wagon, owned by J. H. Whitton, was driven by Fred McCarthy. Cardio, who was on a bicycle, attempted to cross in front of the horses. McCarthy tried to check the team, but could not in time, and Cardio was run over and his hip fractured. He was taken to the Relief Hospital.

MESSAGE STIRS THE PACIFIC SLOPE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 5.—President Roosevelt has stirred a storm in California which is felt from end to end along the Pacific coast by the statements in his message on the Japanese question. Among the masses of the people, and particularly among the labor unions, the most bitter feeling has been aroused, and it is predicted freely that unless something intervenes to change the sentiment he has driven California, if not the entire coast, from the Republicans.

Oregon and Washington, as well as California, have declared for the exclusion of the Japanese, and to all these States the President's words come as a direct affront. The President is excoriated for his threat to use troops, and he openly is charged with deliberately misstating the position taken by the authorities of this city and the State.

Overstepped Authority.

The Chronicle declares that the President has overstepped his authority in threatening to coerce San Francisco. It says: "The President says, 'To shut out Japanese from public schools is a wicked absurdity.' They are not shut out from the public schools. That is an untruth.

"The President demands more power to enforce the rights of aliens under treaties. The context shows that his assumption is that the Japanese have a treaty right to enter our schools. There is no basis of fact for that assumption."

Says President Is Excited.

The Daily Call is inclined to ridicule President Roosevelt for his "excited rhetoric and his misinformation."

Should force be used, the Californians declare, they will not weaken, and while they may have to bow for the time being to Federal dictation they will withdraw all the white children from the public schools and leave them in sole possession of the Japanese.

SENATE DEMANDS FULL INFORMATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—The answer of the Senate to the President's recommendation for legislation that would force the city of San Francisco to give Japanese equal privileges with other nations was to pass a resolution this afternoon calling for full information on the subject.

It was presented by Senator Flint and called upon the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to send to the Senate copies of all official letters, telegrams, reports, etc., "in connection with the investigation of the matter of Japanese attending the public schools in San Francisco, if not incompatible with the public interest."

There was no objection to the adoption of the resolution.

The Californian delegation in Congress is embittered over the President's veiled threat to use the civil and military forces of the United States to force California to recede from the position taken by her school board toward the Japanese. The members from the Pacific Slope aver that the public feeling in California, now highly inflamed, will become violent.

The President adds to his offence, in the eyes of the Californians, by his sweeping eulogium of the Japanese. He has shown his contempt for the Californians, they say, by lauding the Japanese and attributing to them all the virtues.

JUDGE REFUSES TO FINE TRACK WALKERS

LYNN, Dec. 5.—Five men were arraigned in the Lynn Police Court to-day charged with track walking, and Judge Berry refused to fine them, declaring that the men had not intentionally violated the law. The Boston & Maine railroad officials have declared their intention of preventing the public from "taking a short cut" through the local freight yards.

REFORM THE CURRENCY LAW, SHAW PLEADS

Secretary in Annual Report Tells What He Has Done in Financial Emergencies.

WANTS MORE ELASTICITY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—In his report to the President, made public to-day, Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw defends his practice of reaching out a helping hand full of cash to Wall street when it is in need. After discussing the need of currency legislation and the emergencies that have arisen in the financial world, he says:

"The failure to provide some prompt measure of relief will most certainly invite disaster."

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, the total revenues of the Government were $594,454,121.67. The revenues from the postal service were $167,932,782.95. The total expenditures of the Government in the same time were $736,717,582.01, leaving a surplus now in the treasury of $25,669,322.61.

Helped in Crop Crisis.

Describing the acute condition resulting from harvesting the enormous crops of this year, the secretary tells how the treasury came to the relief of the situation by facilitating the importation of $50,000,000 of gold and distributing in addition $26,000,000 among the banks all over the country.

"Sensational writers told the people," he says, "that all this was being done for the encouragement of speculation on Wall street. If those who recognize that a deposit of money at Denver relieves financial tension at Wall street will also acknowledge that a deposit in New York relieves financial stringency at Denver no material harm will ensue. Money is almost as liquid as water, and finds its level about as quickly."

Wants More Elastic Currency.

Urging the need of legislation to provide a more elastic currency the secretary says: "There is well nigh universal agreement in recognizing the necessary of a 'currency system that will contract when money is redundant as promptly as it will expand when money is scarce.'"

As to credit currency for permanent maintenance, he says:

"I would not view even with apprehension of evil any credit currency legislation so restricted as to render impossible the permanent maintenance of more than $200,000,000."

The secretary does not favor the establishment of a central government bank. He says such a bank would be governed by a board, the members of which would doubtless have outside interests and each could shift the responsibility from himself to the board as an aggregation.

Warmer!

A balmy, near-warm wave is heading Bostonwards from Kansas and Nebraska, where snow and rain are falling to-day. The snowstorm, or rain, as the case may be when it gets here, is not due until to-morrow some time. In the meantime the temperature will be slowly rising.

The forecast is: Fair and warmer tonight; Thursday, snow or rain and warmer; light, variable winds, becoming easterly.

The coldest place in New England last night was Northfield, Vt., where the mercury registered 6 degrees zero. At 8 o'clock this morning it stood 8 above. In Boston to-day the mercury is registering about 14 degrees above what it did at corresponding hours of yesterday. The lowest temperature in America to-day is White River, B. N. W., where the thermometer dropped to six degrees below at 8 o'clock this morning.

The cold snap yesterday, when the thermometer played tag with the zero mark nearly all day, caused four deaths and made suffering intense. The coldest hour of the day in Boston was at 7 a. m., when the mercury registered four degrees above zero. At noon it rose to 12 degrees, and at 2 o'clock it was at thirteen. In the evening it dropped to 11 degrees and remained at that point until midnight. It is now gradually rising. The coldest point in New England, was at Montgomery, Vt., where the thermometer registered 18 degrees below zero.

The victims of the cold were James D. Elliott, forty years old, a coachman, found in the street in Winchester; Andrew Russell, a fahm laborer, found by the road in Kennebunkport, Me.; William Farrell, former railroad man, seventy-six years old, found in a hut at East Providence, R. I.; Robert Prentiss, a lumberman, sixty-two years old, found on the highway. Joseph Van B'areon of Swampscott had both hands frozen.

Yesterday was the coldest December 4 in thirty-six years. The nearest approach to it was in 1873 when the mercury went down to six degrees above zero.

BLANCHE BATES LAYS NEW THEATRE CORNER-STONE

"Girl of the Golden West," Now Playing at Majestic Theatre, Goes to New York Ceremony.

Miss Blanche Bates, the breezy "Girl of the Golden West," who has been delighting packed houses at the Majestic last week and this, after being whisked over to New York on the midnight train, laid the corner stone of Belasco's new Stuyvesant Theatre on West Forty-fourth street, Manhattan, just before noon to-day, according to leased-wire dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN, and is now flying back to the Hub on the Knickerbocker limited so that she will be able to appear at the usual performance this evening.

The talented actress is the first woman, it is said, to lay the corner stone of a theatre in New York. There was a large crowd of professionals at the spot when the curtain rose for the act of the "Girl" and she laid hold of a trowel as though he were about to mix a mountain cocktail in her "polka" saloon in the Golden West.

Souvenirs Contributed.

After making a few passes with the mortar implement Miss Bates, in her most solemn stage voice declared:

"I pronounce this stone well and truly laid. ("It wasn't but that was looked after later by real masons.)

Then she grabbed up a trowel full of mortar. "I hope," she said, as she distributed the mixture with a deft hand, "that Mr. Belasco will stick to his friends and his friends to him like the cement to this stone."

Miss Frances Starr passed around a copper box, which is to be sealed within the stone, for souvenirs. She got all the programmes of David Belasco's plays and attractions, photographs of the Belasco actresses and actors, not including Mrs. Leslie Carter, a handful of coins, a button bearing his own portrait from "Bim the Buttonman," who was present, and other things.

Miss Starr Enthusiastic.

Finally Miss Starr snipped off a lock of her blonde hair (this will be a shock to those who admired her brunette beauty in "The Rose of the Rancho") and put that in, with a farewell kiss. In her enthusiasm she was about to cast in her diamond studded gold watch, but Mr. Belasco stopped her.

"Nay, nay," said he. So Miss Starr obediently nayed.

Mrs. Reina and Augusta Belasco, daughters of the playwright, helped in handling the stone. Besides those named there were among those in attendance—Mrs. Belasco, Mrs. M. R. Bimberg, Mr. and Mrs. David Warfield, Mr. and Mrs. Brandon Tynan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richman, Mrs. Cookwell, who is Miss Starr's mother; Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cook, A. Baldwin Sloane and Mrs. F. M. Bates. The theatre will be ready for occupancy next Fall.

CHILD LABOR BILL BY LODGE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Senator Lodge introduced in the Senate to-day a bill designed to prevent the employment of child labor. It differs from a similar measure prepared by Senator Beveridge, in that it permits interstate transportation of goods manufactured by youths between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years, if they can produce certificates from school authorities of their home towns testifying to the fact that they are able to read and write the English language.

MAN OVERCOME BY GAS WHILE ASLEEP

Albert Lefford, aged forty years, a laborer, living at No. 395 Western avenue, Cambridgeport, is in the Cambridge Relief Hospital to-day in a serious condition, the result of inhaling fumes of gas while asleep. Lefford lay down on a lounge to-day while his wife went out on an errand. When she returned over an hour later she smelled gas and hastened to the room where she had left her husband asleep. He was unconscious.

WANT GREATER BOSTON CENSUS

Clerk Kimball of the Massachusetts House of Representatives to-day received a petition from the Real Estate Exchange, of which William A. Gaston is president and F. H. Viaux is secretary, asking that the General Court which meets in January enact a bill providing that the Bureau of Statistics shall compile and publish every fifth year the combined statistics of population, valuation, commerce and manufactures of the cities and towns lying in whole or in part within the ten-mile circle from the State House, under the title of "Statistics of Metropolitan Boston." This is the first petition to be filed asking for legislation by the next Legislature.

GUILD A GUEST OF WHEELER

Governor Guild and the members of the Executive Council left Boston on the 9:30 train to-day for the town of Orange, where they are being entertained by Councillor John W. Wheeler.

At 11 o'clock the regular meeting of the council was held. Governor Guild appointed John A. MacRae of Boston as a boiler inspector of the district police.

The Governor re-appointed the following: Horace M. Sargent of Haverhill, clerk of the Central District Court of Northern Essex; Leonard W. Ross of Canton, trustee of the School and Home for Crippled and Deformed Children; William H. Proctor of Swampscott and Henry Splaine of Boston to be members of the district police; F. C. Ingalls of Boston, to be clerk of the Boston Municipal Court for criminal business

GROCER HELD IN $2,000 BAIL

Charged with obtaining $700 under false pretences, Thomas F. McDonough, a grocer, was held by Judge Fallon in the South Boston Court to-day for the Grand Jury, bail being fixed at $2,000. The complainants are Robert Harrison and Charles G. Richmond, South Boston business men, who testified that on McDonough's representation that he had an option on the grocery at O and East Fourth streets, and that $700 would establish him, they went on his note for that amount, and McDonough got the money from the Mattapan Trust Company.

Harrison and Richmond say that the note was for four months, and that they granted McDonough's request for a sixty-day extension. Then, they allege, he refused to pay.

SUICIDE PLOT OF GILLETTE, CONDEMNED TO DIE FOR GIRL'S MURDER, BALKED;

SLAYER OF GRACE BROWN CHEERED BY MESSAGE FROM HIS MOTHER

Jail Guards Discover Plan by Which Doomed Youth Intends to Cheat the Electric Chair.

> ### 'May Be Bad, but I'm Not a Murderer,' Says Gillette
>
> Well, I tell you it is an awful strain on a man. I feel it to-night, not because I think Ward has convinced that jury of my guilt, but because of the strain of sitting there in that courtroom, with eyes peering at me from everywhere, and with that man Ward shaking his finger in my face as he accused me of every crime and low, mean motive under the canopy. I tell you, I am a lot of things I should not be, but I am not a murderer.—Statement by Chester Gillette before verdict.

HERMIKER, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Doomed to death in the electric chair by the verdict of the jury, returned after five hours' discussion, for the murder of his sweetheart, "Billy" Brown, comfort and hope came to Chester E. Gillette to-day in a message from his mother, who assured the hapless young man that she believed in his innocence and that his case would be appealed.

When the foreman of the jury, shortly after 11 o'clock last evening, pronounced the one word that told Gillette of his fate, the prisoner displayed the same remarkable nerve that he has shown since the beginning of the sensational trial. Reaching for a piece of white paper, he wrote calmly and without the least tremble this telegram to his father in Denver:

"Dear Father—Am convicted. Will write. —Chester."

FELL QUICKLY ASLEEP.

Then he was taken to his cell. Refusing to talk to the newspaper men he quickly prepared for bed and in a short time sleep snatched him from a realization of the fearful fate that confronts him.

Chester Gillette slept like a top all night.

"How did you enjoy your breakfast?" asked Klock.

"Well, I ate everything that was put before me," replied Gillette.

Several jurors called on Gillette during the day. They told him they were sorry for his unfortunate position, but that the evidence would not permit them to return any other verdict.

Gillette merely smiled and shook hands through the cell door.

One or two witnesses also called and expressed sympathy. After his visitors left Gillette began playing solitaire.

In the gloom of the early morning the message from his mother came, and it was taken to the prisoner. Emotion showed on his face when he had read the words of that one person at least who would be faithful to him unto death. Tears trickled down his cheeks.

"I will yet be free," he exclaimed with a show at enthusiasm, "see my mother knows that I am innocent!"

> "My Own Dear Boy—God still reigns; your innocence will be proved. We have sent word that the case is to be appealed. Keep up your courage. Trust in God. Our trust is there. He will not fail us. We have firm faith in your innocence, and the wrong shall not prevail. God willing, I shall be at the next trial. Your mother,
>
> "LOUISE GILLETTE."

Victim's Mother Weeps.

Frank Brown, father of "Billy" Brown, was pleased over the verdict. "Gillette is guilty and he should be punished," the old father said to-day. His wife, Mrs. Minerva Brown, burst out crying when the mesenger dashed into the room and announced the verdict.

Within fifteen minutes after the court had dismissed the jury the men who had by their judgment decided that Grace Brown had been murdered sent word to the Browns that they would like to see them. All of the jurors expressed deepest sympathy to the father and mother, and the foreman of the jury, speaking for the rest, said that they were firmly convinced from the first that Gillette was guilty.

"I am so glad that he was convicted," Mrs. Brown said to-day. "I feared that the wretch might escape somehow. You must know how I feel against him for what he has done. I never saw him until I came to the trial three weeks ago."

Gillette will be formally sentenced to-morrow.

FEAR SUICIDE ATTEMPT.

Feeling that Gillette might attempt to asphyxiate himself the jail authorities have removed from his cell a small gas stove which had been used to warm it.

A visitor, seeing the gas stove still in Gillette's cell, said: "Isn't that pretty risky, letting that fellow have gas?"

"Oh, it's been turned off for a week," said a deputy. "You see, he can't get at the gas. The stopcock out here in the corridor is shut."

The visitor walked over to the stopcock and examined it. He made a discovery so astounding that he shouted to the keepers. They, too, examined the pipe and they found the gas turned on full and flowing through the rubber pipe leading to the stove in Gillette's cell.

"That fellow's a devil," said one of the deputies. "He has been gradually turning on the key while he walked behind us."

Gillette, in his cell, would only have needed to detach the rubber pipe from the stove, put the pipe in his mouth, bind it securely there with his handkerchief, and, in a little time, he would have cheated the death chair.

Believed Suicide Theory.

I. C. Berrigan of Salisbury, one of the jury, stood out against the conviction of Gillette for nearly five hours. He believed Grace Brown committed suicide. Five ballots were taken. Each time the result was 11 to 1.

Two hours passed between the fourth and fifth ballots. During that time the eleven who condemned Gillette argued with Berrigan.

Violent words passed, and Berrigan was told that Herkimer County would not hold him if he persisted in hanging up the jury. After a bitter scene he yielded.

TRY TO SAVE CREW OF SHIP IN DISTRESS

CHATHAM, Dec. 5.—Monomoy life-savers are striving to rescue the crew of an unknown barkentine which has been flying distress signals off the point. The vessel is now at anchor, but it is feared that the crew has suffered from exhaustion and exposure after the fight to take the ship out of peril on the shoals.

The United States revenue cutter Gresham has gone to the assistance of the vessel, and is trying to pick its way among the shoals and reach its side.

The Boston tug Mercury started for the wreck this noon, and may take off the crew.

CONFESSION OF GAMBLER HITS POLICE HEADS

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—"The" Allen's man, Albert H. Falk, who has conducted the aged poolroom keeper's places, and who probably knows more about gambling in this city than "The" himself, was haled before the Grand Jury to-day and retold in that body the confession he made to District Attorney Jerome on Monday night last.

The evidence given by Falk was such as to have a far-reaching effect, and it is expected that through it the name of the "man higher up" in the police department will be revealed.

Armed with a bundle of documents and letters which the police seized when they raided "The's" home at No. 17 West Eighth street a week or so ago, the District Attorney entered the Grand Jury room and took up the papers, one by one. Many of them were in Falk's own handwriting and were referred to as "high police business."

Under the Dowling act, Falk, through his confession, cannot be prosecuted; that is, as far as his story to the Grand Jury is concerned. Falk not only reiterated his confession of Monday night, but added many important additions.

There were six other witnesses called before the Grand Jury. It is said that some of them were connected with poolrooms and the police department, but their names were not divulged.

'YELLOW DOG' AGENT TO FACE GRAND JURY

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—Judge Andrew Hamilton, who was disbursing agent of the "yellow dog" fund of the New York Life Insurance Company, will be summoned before the December grand jury to tell how the fund was managed.

Announcement was made to-day that as soon as the trial of George Burnham, Jr., vice president of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, is completed, the investigation of the New York Life will be resumed. The Metropolitan Life will probably follow.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the International policyholders' committee, says he has an affidavit from Thomas C. Hindman, managing agent of the New York Life at Nashville, Tenn., saying he spent $1,142 to obtain votes for the Peabody ticket.

Hindman says D. E. Dudley, a managing agent, directed him to make liberal advances to his principal sub-agents to canvass for votes.

MISS FARRAR SCORES IN PHILADELPHIA

DYER LEAVES SONS $250 EACH, BULK TO WIDOW

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Dec. 5.—Former Governor Elisha Dyer, who died suddenly Thanksgiving day, in his will disposing of property worth $150,000, cuts off his three sons with $250 each, gives $5,000 to his stenographer, Miss Frances E. Kinnicutt and the residue of his estate to his widow, who has long been the society leader of upper Rhode Island.

Besides his widow, and his son, Colonel Anthony Dyer, the artist, in this city, one of his sons, Colonel George R. Dyer, of New York, commands a crack regiment, and another, Elisha, has been known for years as one of the Newport and New York cotillon leaders. The two elder sons had not resided in this state for twenty years, and seldom visited the city, though so far as known, there had been no family estrangement.

Miss Kinnicutt is a good-looking young woman, still under forty, and had been a stenographer and typewriter for the former Governor more than fifteen years.

It is believed that the Governor intended to express disapproval of his sons, so much as to leave the bulk of his comparatively small estate to his widow, as the income of the residue is barely sufficient to support her in her accustomed style. She is expected to leave the principal to her children at her death.

FALSE STORIES BY G. G. A. HURT DEWEY, HE SAYS

Declaring that the office of Mayor, which he sought, is one of considerable profit as well as honor, Judge Dewey today argued against thedismissal of his action of tort for slander against Laurence Minot, Nathaniel R. Thayer, Eliot N. Jones, John Mason Little and George R. Nutter, members of the Good Government Association, for $50,000, before Judge Fox in the Superior Court equity motion session.

After listening to the arguments of counsel, Judge Dewey in his own behalf and J. B. Studley for the defendants, the Court reserved decision.

Lies and Untruths Distinguished.

Lawyer Studley argued that Judge Dewey had no action, that trebe is difference between telling lies and telling untruths, and that the worst the Good Government Association, of which the defendants were officers, had committed was telling an untruth, believing the same to be true.

He argued that candidates for public office are open to fair comment, that the defendants had exercised their common right to critize Judge Dewey, and that the whole matter was one of special privilege.

Judge Dewey cited numerous authorities to the Court to warrant his action in bringing suits. He alleged in his declaration that the defendants had maliciously and falsely written and caused to be published articles which were false, and greatly injured his feelings and reputation, causing him great distress of mind and also great financial loss and being specially damaged in that he failed to be elected as a result of such articles.

Says Promise Was False.

"They first give utterance to a statement I never made and then on that false premise they slandered and libelled me. In fact, they declared I was mentally unfit, and now counsel for them will probably claim that statement wts a compliment to me," declared the judge with some warmth.

The suit grows out of the mayoralty fight of last year, when Judge Dewey was defeated in the Republican caucus by Louis A. Frothingham and then ran independently in the four-cornered fight won by Mayor Fitzgerald.

M'CORMICK OUT WHITE FROM ROME TO PARIS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Henry White, now American Ambassador at Rome, will be transfered to Paris.

Robert S. McCormick, the present Ambassador at Paris, will be retired from the diplomatic service in a few weeks because he incurred the displeasure of President Roosevelt.

The real cause of the retirement of Mr. McCormick dates back to the Russian-Japanese War. Mr. McCormick was at that time the American representative at St. Petersburg, and he was an intense Russian sympathizer.

After he returned to St. Petersburg President Roosevelt transferred Ambassador McCormick to Paris without consulting him.

Since this occurrence, Mr. McCormick has been persona non grata with the President, and his retirement from the diplomatic service has been expected.

Lloyd C. Griscom, now Ambassador to Brazil, will be sent to Rome.

CRUSHED BETWEEN CARS, LOSES LIFE

James Carroll, aged fifty years, of No. 22 Fourth stret, East Cambridge, died today, as the result of being crushed between freight cars on the Boston & Maine railroad in East Cambridge last night. Carroll had been employed for nine years by the railroad as a car wiper. He leaves a widow and eight children in poor circumstances.

CARS DITCHED, MANY INJURED

FRANKFORT, Ind., Dec. 5.—At an early hour to-day the Monon Company heard that one of its fast northbound Chicago passenger trains was wrecked one mile north of Cambria and many of the 100 or more passengers were injured. The train was No. 36, and had left here about fourteen minutes late, and was running at a high rate of speed. The train struck a broken rail.

The engine passed over in safety, as did the mail and baggage cars, but the smoker and day coach, filled with passengers, left the rails and were overturned in the ditch.

SHAWISMS BY DALY MAKE A HIT AT KEITH'S

Advice to Husbands and Sweethearts Given in Story of a Poet's Verse.

WIT SPARKLES IN LESSON

"You're a dear, good boy."

Husbands, here is a lesson for you in the way to treat your wives.

Sweethearts—male ones—here is a lesson for you in the way to treat your sweetheart's husband, if she has one.

Women — lovely, lovable, admiring, admirable women, whether wives or wives-to-be—here is a lesson in what not to do; also one in what to do with ardent admirers who are unmarried.

It is learned in this fashion: Buy a long pink ticket, with a letter upon it, signifying the aisle; a number, signifying the seat; and a date, signifying the day on which this little pink ticket can be used; but be sure to buy it at Keith's New Theatre, for this is the only place (this week) that this valuable lessen can be learned.

The teacher is Professor (by courtesy) Arnold Daly. The text book is G. Bernard Shaw, Vol. CLX., Page 23, chapter headed, "How He Lied to Her Husband." One can learn more from this lesson alone than from half a hundred years of experience.

Makes Husband Mad.

It tells the tale of a buxom wife with whom is smitten a callow youth, a poet, a dreamer, who writes poems—l-l-o-o-ve poems—to her, and the title of each one of them is "To Aurora"—for Aurora is her name. These poems fall into the hands of the husband and the poet suggests elopement. Before they decide the husband returns, confronts the poet with his verses, and, in accord with his promise to Aurora to be true to his honor as a gentleman, the boy poet lies. He says they were written to the sunrise—to Aurora, don't you see?

"I've got growing pains."

But the husband sees too clearly and he gets "mad" because the poet didn't write them to his wife. There is a scuffle, the poet finally owns up that he did write them to the live Aurora, and the husband is "tickled to death."

It's a great lesson, this. Its telling is filled with bright, crisp, sparkling Shawisms that force a laugh even out of a cold-blooded vaudeville audience which, a minute previously, has been listening with rapture to the imitations of a circus menagerie and a cat fight.

Arnold Daly plays the role of the lover, Percival T. Moore the husband, and Isabelle Urquhart the wife. Isabelle wears a green waist and a black skirt. It is only half a waist at back and but little more waist in front, but she looks "real nice" in it. Daly wears a dress suit, but the husband wears a Scotch plaid business suit.

Where Shaw Shines.

Here are some of the bright Shawian lines.

"There ought to be a law against a man's sister ever entering her brother's house after he is married."

"What can she see in him?"

(While suggesting elopement.) "Remember we owe something to your husband. We are his guests here. I will ask your husband to lend us the carriage."

"I took Teddy to see 'Candida.' I thought she would do him good. So she would if I could only have kept him awake."

"Do you mean to say that we should walk right bang up to Teddy and tell him we are going away together?" "Yes! What would be simpler?"

"Don't you dare swear in my presence. Any one would think you were my husband."

"Does the name of Bumpus occur in any of those poems?" "How could I use such a name in a poem?"

"Do you wish me to tell a lie?" "Surely, as a man of honor you would not tell the truth, would you?"

(The husband is angered because the poet claims he doesn't admire his wife). "I'd have you know that my wife had been admired by better men than you. Three Presidents of the United States have danced with my wife and been proud to do it."

'JEWELS MINE,' SAYS GIRL SUED FOR RETURN OF GIFTS

Beautiful Julia Crosby Says Jewels Were Given to Her by Frederick Vinal.

Declares She Dropped His Acquaintance When She Learned He Was Married.

To-day, for the first time, the beautiful Somerville singer, Miss Julia Crosby, as she is known in professional life, gives her side of the story concerning the legal action instituted by Frederick A. Vinal of this city to get back $850 worth of jewelry which he says he loaned to her, and which she declares were gifts, in token of friendship.

Furthermore, Miss Crosby shows several letters which she and her lawyer, Edward P. Barry, declare will form most interesting evidence in the case if it is ever pushed to the trial point. Two of these letters, which Miss Crosby and her counsel say are self-explanatory, are as follows:

Letters Signed "Fred."

"Sweetheart:

"I found a bargain, so dainty and very well made, that it appealed to me as just the proper garment for you, dear, so I bought it. I couldn't help it. You mustn't scold me, as I want you to have all the nice things I can possibly get for you. If it isn't just what you want, I will exchange it. Will see you at 5:30 at the drug store. With love. Your sweetheart, (Signed) "FRED.

"Saturday at 1 o'clock."

"American Whist Club, No. 173 Tremont Street, Boston.

"Sweetheart:

"I want to see you at 5:55 to-night at the drug store, and I think you will be pleased to see me. I have watched for you since 2:35 until now, 3 o'clock, and of course it would be just my luck not to have you come down on Tremont street, as I wanted to avoid sending to the theatre. I have got a bit of surprise for you, dearie, and I want you to have it at once, as I am positive you can use it to much better advantage than I can. Lovingly yours, (Signed) "FRED.

"April 3."

Met Him at Dinner.

Vinal lives now at No. 104 West Springfield street and is a wealthy real estate dealer, with a taste for automobiling. He is married. He recently made application for an injunction to restrain Miss Crosby from disposing of the jewelry, which he says he merely loaned her, with the understanding he should get it back. The case is due to be heard in January. Miss Crosby says:

"I met Mr. Vinal at a dinner. He seemed interested in me at once. He gave me jewelry and other presents and seemed to be well able to afford them.

"I did not know he was married until one day, when dining with him, I was surprised to have a young man come up and address Mr. Vinal as 'Pop.' I dropped Mr. Vinal thereafter. Following that, he seems to be desirous of humiliating me.

"I have a steamer trunk full of letters. One of them refers to a gift of diamonds.

"I have disposed of the diamonds he gave me. I believed I had a right to. I shall not make restitution until a court so orders."

JULIA CROSBY, WHO IS SUED TO RETURN GEMS

SAVE 9 CUT OFF BY FIRE, HOME BURNED

Cut off from escape by a fire which was raging in the lower floor of their house, nine persons, seven of them small children, were bravely rescued by firemen in South Boston early to-day. The blaze was in the lower floor of the three-story wooden building at No. 18 Sixth street, which is occupied by Edward Girard. This family escaped easily.

On the third floor, hemmed in by blazing stairways, were John S. Beaton, his wife and three children. Rushing a ladder to a window, Lieutenant Mulligan of Engine 15 and Hosemen Hart and Gearing, made five trips to bring down the occupants of the flat.

In the meantime four little children on the second floor were filling the air with their cries. They were Margaret, John, Jeremiah and Timothy O'Keefe, the latter a baby of only one year.

Firemen hurried another ladder to this window, and Lieutenant Noonan of Chemical No. 8 made four trips with the little ones.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It is supposed to be incendiary by the police. The house was burned to the ground, and all three families lost their worldly possessions.

HISS RIVAL OF MRS. DUFF IN SCHOOL FIGHT

The campaign of the three candidates for the Boston School Board, David A. Ellis, regular Democratic and Republican candidate, and Mrs. Julia E. Duff and Joseph M. Sullivan, independent candidates, is on in earnest. Mr. Ellis addressed six big meetings last night, and Mrs. Duff and Mr. Sullivan indulged in a wordy war at a meeting of the Jamaica Plain Citizens' Association.

Mr. Ellis made a whirlwind tour of the city, speaking at six meetings. He travelled about in a big touring car, and starting in at the wardroom on Charles street, in Ward 11, made the rounds of Wards 10, 12, 9 and 7, and then went out to Jamaica Plain, where he spoke before a meeting of the Citizens' Association.

Denies Corrupt Practice.

At the Jamaica Plain meeting, Mr. Ellis spoke on the same platform with Mrs. Duff and Mr. Sullivan. He denied the allegations of corruption made by Mrs. Duff, who spoke earlier.

Before the arrival of Mr. Ellis, Mrs. Duff and Mr. Sullivan addressed the meeting. Mrs. Duff spoke first. She said that the operation of the teachers' merit list by the members of the present school board was unfair and she said that teachers who performed two years' faithful service found themselves crowded out by others who were lower down on the list and not worthy of appointment.

Hisses for Sullivan.

Mr. Sullivan, in his address, charged Mrs. Duff with exercising her privilege, while a member of the School Board, to an extraordinary degree. He asserted that her sister was in office as an instructor at $1,500 a year; that her brother got $4 a night as an instructor, and that her husband received an appointment as medical director. "If this is not making the schools a family affair, what is it?" asked Mr. Sullivan.

Many in the hall hissed the speaker and Chairman M. J. Murray asked that all who had hissed stand up. Mrs. Duff and some of her friends rose, and Mrs. Duff was given three minutes to reply to Mr. Sullivan's charges. She said that her two brothers were public school teachers eight years before she was a member of the School Board. Mrs. Duff and her husband then left the hall, and many followed them out, Mrs. Duff holding a little reception in the entryway downstairs.

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES UNION LABEL COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

Joseph Balhorn of Lafayette, Ind., international president of the Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers' Union of America, arrived here yesterday to take a hand in the matter of Boston Painters' Union No. 11, Boston Signwriters' Union and Boston Paperhangers' Union refusing to affiliate with the Building Trades section of the Central Labor Union.

A month ago the Central Labor Union adopted an amendment to its constitution declaring that all building trades affiliated with it must join the Building Trades section of the C. L. U. within thirty days, and that the C. L. U. Building Trades section was the only bona fide building trades central body in this city.

The time for joining the Building Trades section expired yesterday. The officials of Painters' Union No. 11 declare that the union will stand by the vote taken some time ago—to remain in the Building Trades Council, and not to affiliate with the Building Trades section of the Central Labor Union.

It is asserted that the Painters' International Union has approved of the action of the Boston Painters' Union in the matter, and that International President Balhorn is here to back up the Boston local in its fight against the C. L. U. It is pointed out that a similar controversy occurred in New York recently, and that the American Federation of Labor notified the Central Federated Trades of that city that if they did not reinstate the union expelled its charter would be withdrawn.

A conference will be arranged immediately between representatives of the Building Trades section and the Painters' Union, at which International President Balhorn will be present. International Organizer William F. McCarthy has returned to this city from his organizing tour of the country to take part in the controversy.

CONGRESS TO GET MORE PAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Excepting the thirty-one millionaire members, every representative in Congress is to-day rejoicing over the news that Speaker Cannon will not stand in the way of legislation increasing the salary of members.

Chairman Tawney of the Appropriations Committee made known the glad tidings. The proposed increase is from $5,000 to $7,500 for members, and from $8,000 to $10,000 for "Uncle Joe."

The proposition will be submitted to the House as an amendment to the legislative bill by Representative Littauer, of New York. If enacted into a law it will not be effective until March 4, 1909, when the sixty-first Congress comes into being.

Increased cost of living and expensive campaigns are reasons given why the increase should be allowed.

Stomach Sufferers Squander Millions

In Search of Relief.

The world is full of disordered stomachs, and 90 per cent. of the money spent upon physicians and drugs goes in an attempt to cure the stomach.

People are made to believe that in order to gain health they must doctor their stomachs and use cathartics. So the doctor gets his fee for the stomach treatment and the druggist for the physic, until the savings of a lifetime are exhausted and yet no cure.

Let's be reasonable.

The sick stomach is in every case the result of over-eating, hurried mastication and improper choice of foods. The mucous lining all the way down the food tract loses its sensitiveness, and when food is forced down the muscles fail to respond. They do not churn the food as they should. The glands no longer give out gastric juice to dissolve the food and render it capable of assimilation. The man has become a dyspeptic.

There is one sure way and only one to bring positive relief. Put into that stomach of yours the very elements that it lacks to get that food into liquid form. It takes pepsin, diastase, golden seal and other ferments to accomplish this. The healthy stomach contains these elements. The dyspeptic stomach lacks part or all of them. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet is made up of just what the dyspeptic stomach lacks—nature's digestives.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not a medicine, not a drug, not a cathartic. They do not cure anbody of anything but Dyspepsia and Indigestion and such ailments as arise from poorly digested food.

While they digest the food the stomach recuperates. The mucous membrane is coming out of its stupor, the gastric juice is coming to the surface, the muscles are regaining their power. Every organ of the body takes on new life, the skin gains color, and the eyes are no longer tinged with yellow. You live.

Why doctor and why drug yourself? Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will take care of your food while Nature cures you.

Try a box at your druggists, 50 cents. Or, if you prefer a free trial package before buying, send your name and address today. F. A. Stuart Co., 68 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

'GOELET' POSER, ABEEL, FREED

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—James Neilson Abeel, who was sentenced to Elmira Reformatory after being found guilty of forgery in duping pretty Eleanor Anderson of this city, while posing as "J. Ogden Goelet," the multi-millionaire brother of the Duchess of Roxburghe, was set free yesterday.

Young Abeel was met at the prison gates by his devoted young wife. They drove to the Lackawanna station, where Abeel drew out a $700 bank roll, sent him, from Texas, by his wealthy father, and bought two tickets to Waco, Texas, via Chicago.

Abeel was a model prisoner in the reformatory. He was treated with unusual consideration and upon leaving was offered the position of private secretary to Superintendent Scott, at a good salary. Abeel declined with thanks, and told Colonel Scott he was leaving for the Southwest to stay.

POISONED SELF TO ESCAPE JAIL TERM

13 BAY STATE CITIES ELECT EXECUTIVES

Ashley Successful Over Thompson in Bitter Fight in New Bedford.

Thirteen Massachusetts cities held elections yesterday.

Eight of the present Mayors were re-elected and two others who had sought re-election were defeated.

In only two of the thirteen cities did the voters change the political designations of their Mayors. Northampton changed from the Democratic to the Republican column and Marlboro from the Republican to the Democratic.

No change was made in the license column, although the net gain for no license in the thirteen cities was 1,919 votes.

New Bedford.

The most exciting contest in the State was in New Bedford, where the election was the most bitterly contested in the history of the city. The vote was the largest ever cast in New Bedford and the unofficial returns give the election to ex-Mayor Charles S. Ashley, who had previously served thirteen terms, over Mayor Thomas Thompson, by the narrow margin of seventy-one votes. The supporters of Mayor Thompson will petition for a recount.

Mr. Ashley carried into office with him four out of six candidates for Aldermen and his candidate for assessor-at-large. The Common Council is equally divided, twelve members of each party being elected.

The betting on the election was heavy and it is said that nearly $50,000 changed hands on the result.

Brockton.

John S. Kent, the Republican candidate, was elected Mayor in Brockton by a plurality of 146. The makeup of the City Council will be three Republicans, two Democrats and two Socialists in the upper board, and seventeen Republicans and four Democrats in the Common Council, a loss to the Republicans of one Alderman. The city went no-license by 1,810.

Fitchburg.

Fitchburg gave Mayor McMahon an increased plurality over H. E. Jennison, his opponent of last year. The wing of the Citizen's party opposed to Mayor McMahon will control the City Council, 13 to 11. The city voted no-license by an increased majority.

Gloucester.

Gloucester re-elected Mayor MacDonald, Republican-Citizen candidate, for a third term, by a reduced plurality of 72 over H. H. Parsons. Only one of the present Board of Aldermen was re-elected, and license won by 116, one of the smallest margins in the history of the city.

Haverhill.

Mayor Roswell L. Wood, Republican, was re-elected for the fourth time in Haverhill by a plurality of about 400. Both branches of the city government will be Republican, only one Councilman being elected by the Democrats. The city was carried for license for the tenth time by about 800.

Lawrence.

Lawrence re-elected Mayor John P. Kane by an increased majority and the Democrats regained control of both branches of the city government. License swept the city by an increased majority. The city voted in favor of the act pensioning call and substitute firemen.

Marlboro.

Marlboro elected Edward F. Brown, Democrat, over General Henry S. Parsons, the present Mayor, by fifty-four votes. The Board of Aldermen will consist of five Republicans and two Democrats and the Common Council of twelve Republicans and two Democrats. The city went for license by 372.

Northampton.

Northampton shifts from the Democratic to the Republican column, having elected E. I. Clapp, Mayor, over J. L. Fowler by 517. The advocates of license carried the city.

Pittsfield.

Allen H. Bagg, Republican, was re-elected Mayor of Pittsfield and gave a reduced majority for license.

Quincy.

Mayor James Thompson, Republican, was re-elected for a third term in Quincy over William T. Shea, Democrat, by a plurality of 195. The Republicans elected their five councilmen-at-large, but the Democrats elected seven councilmen from the wards, a gain of four over last year. The city voted no-license by a majority of 2,044.

Springfield.

The Republicans of Springfield elected William F. Saunderson mayor by a majority of 1,282, all the Aldermen and all but two members of the Common Council. License won by a strong vote.

Taunton.

Mayor John B. Tracy, Republican, was re-elected in Taunton by a majority of 404 over William J. Davidson, Republican-Independent. The Republicans will control both branches of the city government. The city went for license by a reduced majority.

Waltham.

Waltham re-elected Mayor John L. Harvey, Republican, for the fourth time, by a plurality of 868 over John J. Burns, the Democratic candidate. The Board of Aldermen will comprise sixteen Republicans and five Democrats, as at present. The city went no-license by 1,088 votes.

KNEISELS GIVE 2 NOVELTIES WITH HIGH ART

Boston Fails to Give Proper Support to Its Old-Time Favorites, However.

STILL CHANCE FOR REFORM

By Kent Perkins.

At the second of this season's concerts of the Kneisel Quartet in Chickering Hall last night there was a warmly appreciative audience, but it was too small. The same thing was noticeable at the first concert this Fall of this incomparable body of string players. When the Kneisels are thus treated, one is prompted to ask: "What is the matter with musical Boston?"

Can it be possible that a chill has seized the former admirers of the famous four because the musicians have ventured to move their headquarters to New York? Out upon such a thought! The Hub is not so narrow and provincial. Its thousands who appreciate the best there is in music certainly realize that Boston cannot afford to turn a cold roast shoulder to such artists for any reason so petty.

Hope for a Change Next Time.

The apparent coolness must be only a temporary result of unknown circumstances and one may still hope that at the third concert on January 15 there will be an outpouring generous in numbers and hearty in good will.

Last night's programme contained two interesting novelties, a quartet in F major by Maurice Ravel and a quintet in A minor by Viteszlav Novak, in which Arthur Whiting was at the piano. Beethoven's quartet in E flat major, op. 74, was also played. Comment on the manner in which these selections were given is unnecessary.

The two new pieces were played in a way that showed all their charms to the best advantage and made some of their bad spots far more palatable than they would have been with less competent purveyors.

Hints of the Pyrenees.

Ravel's quartet revealed many haunting beauties of theme and occasional harmonies that pleased. Its air of mystery in spots, its hints of a Spanish atmosphere, its far distances and steep heights suggested the Pyrenees and were uplifting. But it was marred by spasmodic fits and starts, shattered rhythms and harmonic eccentricities that not even the high artistry of the Kneisels could clarify.

With less engaging and original thematic material Novak's quintet was worked out with better results than appeared in the quartet. Its Bohemian coloring was not strong; its fire and swing were subdued, but it certainly gave no offence. Mr. Whiting played brilliantly in the few places where opportunity offered.

WAGE EARNERS BOOM ALLEN AND KNEELAND

LABOR'S CANDIDATES FOR ALDERMEN.

Both Stand High in Labor Circles and Known Friends of Workingmen.

Fred J. Kneeland and Robert T. Allen are the two candidates for the Board of Alderman who have the good wishes and the ardent support of the Wage Earners. Although the Wage Earners have also indorsed Michael J. Leary and Charles S. Sullivan, Kneeland and Allen are themselves members of the Wage Earners' classes, and as such will be, if elected, their representatives in the board.

Alderman Kneeland has already served two years in the Board of Alderman, where he was conspicuous in his advocacy of the interests of laboring men.

Robert T. Allen, who is running as a Democratic-Citizens' candidate, is high in the councils of the Mailers' Union. He has occupied many local and national positions in that large body. In him the wage earners see an ideal candidate.

To-night the wage earners meet to consider the candidacy of Mrs. Julia E. Duff, who is running independently for the school committee.

MARLBOROUGHS FIGHT RENEWED OVER CHILDREN

Question of Disposition of Little Ones Precludes Chance of Friendly Separation.

DUKE WANTS "HIS RIGHTS"

LONDON, Dec. 5.—The marital troubles of the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough are bound to come into the courts for settlement, as all hopes of a friendly agreement are gone, acording to the Manchester Dispatch. The Duke, it states, regards himself as the injured party, and is insisting on securing "his rights."

How to dispose of the children is the greatest bone of contention. They are frantic at the idea of leaving their mother. They have always been with her and have regarded the Duke as a distant acquaintance. He is determined, however, to have them entrusted to him. To this Consuelo is willing to agree, but the children themselves resolutely refuse.

King Edward is said making great efforts to keep the affair out of the divorce court and prevent disclosures, expected to make a sensation, but indications are that he will not succeed.

O'MEARA LAUDS POLICE HURT IN LINE OF DUTY

Cites the Case of Schiel, Shot Down by Robber, as an Example of Heroism.

FOUR MONTHS IN HOSPITAL

Police Commissioner Stephen O'Meara to-day paid a tribute to those policeman, who, in the discharge of their duties, are attacked, beaten or shot by criminals, and who, as a consequence, are compelled to oftentimes endure months of suffering. He named Policeman Peter Schiel, of the Charlestown Station, who last summer was shot by a robber. The Commissioner said:

"The case of Patrolman Schiel shows the risk which patrolmen run of injury, with long suffering, coming upon them in a moment. He was shot in the left leg by a robber whom he was chasing in Charlestown on July 28, and from that day to this, more than four months, he has been at the City Hospital.

"Through all of these one hundred and thirty days and nights he has been forced to lie in one position, flat on his back, with his leg in a plaster cast, strapped to a steel frame, and most of the time with his feet higher than his head. The doctors hope to get him up and on crutches in from four to six weeks, but they believe that it will be a year before he will be able to do police duty.

"His general health is excellent, and he is patient and cheerful. Policeman Schiel has a wife and two children, and his superiors speak of him as an excellent officer, faithful, moral and upright."

BOY FREED FROM FIREBUG CHARGE

Max Ruderman was discharged for lack of evidence in the Malden District Court to-day, when arraigned on the charge of arson.

Young Ruderman, who is only twenty years old, was arrested on suspicion of causing the fire which consumed the Malden Lumber Company yards on the night of November 8.

"ROBIN HOOD" BY AMATEURS

The presentation of "Robin Hood," by the Boston Operatic Society, under the direction of Herbert F. Odell, last night in Jordan Hall, was a creditable affair for the young amateur singers. The cast had been carefully chosen and while there were some delays and interruptions they were largely due to nervousness. D. E. Bowen gave an excellent portrayal of the Sheriff of Nottingham and George B. Bigelow as Friar Tuck was notably funny in the second act. Of the women Miss Louise Senton as Alan-a-Dale received the heartiest applause.

Miss Helen D. Mahler was Lady Mary; Miss Emma Ecker was Dame Durden, and Miss Sophie Barnard was Anabel. The men in the cast were W. T. Wingfield, Robin Hood; William Wilson, Sir Guy; A. R. Marshall, Little John; Charles Long, Will Scarlet. The work of the chorus was excellent. The opera will be repeated to-night.

TEST FOR NEW VOTE MACHINES

The two Dean voting machines, purchased by Mayor Fitzgerald and the election commissioners at an expense of $1000, for trial at the city election next Tuesday, were installed to-day at the voting booths in Precinct 6 of Ward 7, and Precinct 6 of Ward 10, where they will be used on election day.

The machines will be on exhibition to-night. The one in Ward 17 is located on Tyler street, near Kneeland, and in Ward 10 on Appleton street, near Columbus avenue. No more machines will be purchased, it is said, until a Supreme Court decision has been obtained as to whether the machines can be legally used at State elections, the constitution of Massachusetts providing that Representatives to the Legislature must be elected by written ballot.

LEE-O'SULLIVAN PAPERS SEALED

In the Superior Court motion session the declarations in the $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Isabel Lee of East Boston against Humphrey O'Sullivan, the millionaire "rubber heel" man of Lowell, were impounded. This seals the opportunity for the exposure of the contents of the papers except by the leave of the courts and until such time as the courts release the papers for the trial. The papers were impounded yesterday afternoon, although attorneys for the plaintiff, Granville S. MacFarland and J. J. Scott, refused to admit that a motion to impound the papers had been asked or granted.

To Hit Happiness Aim at HEALTH

A soothsayer once told his despondent king that true happiness could be secured by wearing the undershirt of a perfectly happy subject. After diligent search the king met a peasant by the roadside who confessed that he was perfectly happy. Instantly he was commanded to strip. But, alas for kingly expectations. The man wore no undershirt.

Happiness cannot be secured by aiming at it. Nevertheless it is possible to be happy if you go about it in the right way. Be useful, cultivate cheerfulness, live within your means and be careful of your health. Aim at these and happiness follows without any direct pursuit.

On the other hand, the secret of health is simple and can be found at any drug store. Buy a box of Beecham's Pills at the nearest one, read the directions carefully, and take a pill or two whenever the stomach is upset, the liver torpid, the bowels inactive, or when headache interferes with business or sleep.

The well man is usually happy. Good spirits and good health go together. Happiness and health are closely related. Aim at the first and you will hit both with the quick, safe and certain aid of

WHOLE WORLD OF SPORTS COVERED FOR THE BOSTON AMERICAN BY ITS CORPS OF EXPERTS

RICKARD SCORES NOLAN

BY TAD.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—"Tex" Rickard, the man who made Goldfield famous, is in town. He is the man who managed the great Nelson-Gans fight at Goldfield, Nev., advertising that mining town like a new breakfast food, and taking in at the gate more money than was ever taken in at an athletic event before in history.

He is stopping at the Imperial Hotel here in town, and will stick until Christmas, looking over the dump and attending to some mining stocks.

"Tex" is not what you would expect to see at all. When you hear his name and know that he was a Klondiker, a cowboy and now a mining man from Goldfield, the first thing you expect to see is a gatling gun sticking out from some pocket. You are disappointed. You think then that he would be piled up with diamonds, swell rings and other junk, and you are disappointed again.

He's just as plain as A. B. C. and looks to me like good people. There is nothing flashy, nothing noisy and nothing suggesting a swollen dome.

Tex No Berry Wall.

He dresses in black—black derby, black suit and black shoes. In his necktie is a small pearl pin; on his finger is a plain ring; and that lets him out as far as the display goes. His hair is black; he is rather tall and has little black eyes that see through everything.

"No, I'm not here on fight business," said "Tex," as he took a load off his feet and sat down at a little mahogany table. "I'm looking after some mining stocks here, and that alone takes up so much of my time that I think of prize fights only in the spare moments.

"Yes, yes; I'm trying to get Gans and Nelson again out in Goldfield, and can draw just as much money again. There's the best fighting card in the world to-day. I wouldn't think of matching any other two men for our town. Jeffries, with some man that would be an even money bet, could draw as well and maybe better, but then that is a dead thought, no one has that chance with Jeff. This Gans-Nelson thing was never settled. We don't know who the best man is yet. You can take it from me that up to the very last minute of that fight we didn't know who would win. You know Nelson was in bad odor out West on account of his manager, Nolan, but he's the greatest little fighter in the world to-day, even though they do knock him.

Nelson Would Be Popular.

"If Nelson had a good, whole-souled manager, he'd be the most popular little fellow in the world, but they won't boost 'Bat' on account of Nolan, and he's always getting the worst of the newspaper stories."

"Was that a foul blow that ended the fight?" asked one of the party.

"Yes," piped "Tex," sitting up straighter. "I saw exactly how the blow was landed. It was just below the belt on the left-hand side; not low, you know, but below the belt. Gans had his hand knocking the punch down and did as much to make it a foul as Nelson.

"Oh, no, I don't think it was intentional at all. In fact, I told both men before entering the ring that if such a thing did happen I would hold out that man's end and give it to charity.

"That butting talk is all nonsense, too. I didn't see Nelson butt Joe once during the fight, and I didn't care who won. It's this way with Nelson: He lays his head on the right shoulder of the other man and fights in close. Very often when they came together 'Bat' had his head on the left-hand side, and in moving it over went right under Gans's chin with it until he got it safely settled on the right-hand side. Why, in one round there he beat Gans so hard about the head that Joe lost easily a quart of blood. I don't say that Nelson had it on Gans at all, but it was a toss-up at any stage. I like to see a man get his dues, but Nelson isn't given credit for that battle. Nolan is the cause of it, and every Western newspaper man knows that he knocked 'Bat' to hurt Nolan.

Goldfield Fight Mad.

"We can give more money for a fight in Goldfield than any other town in the world can. Why, there were only three men on the street the day of that fight. You couldn't hire a man to work. I think there were thirty or forty outside the gate the day the fight started, and we had seats that were vacant, so I let them in about the fourth round. You see, everyone who wanted to see it got in. They don't want little fights out there, but a big circus. Almost every mining camp in Nevada wants a fight now, but it must be a good one or it won't go.

"Well, I'll have Gans and Nelson again in the Spring sure. I want to settle that thing as long as I started it, and the only way is another match."

AUTOS RACE ON STAGE IN VANDERBILT CUP

As each year goes by the public demand more and more of the stage in the way of realistic effects, and the men whose avocation it is to supply mechanical novelties are put to it to cope with the demand.

One of the largest and most sensational novelties yet given to the public is the automobile race in "The Vanderbilt Cup," now at the Colonial Theatre, and in which two enormous Peerless racing cars are driven at top speed to the accompaniment of sparks, dust, shooting flames and explosions that fairly shake the theatre while the scenery wheel passes at a gait that makes the head swim.

The cars are racers and ones that have seen service, too; one is the famous "Green Dragon," with which Barney Oldfield took every record from one mile up to fifty, and the other is a big racer built for speed and for speed alone.

That they travel and travel fast anyone who has seen the race bear witness. While the race lasts but 1¾ minutes, some distance is covered by the wheels. If the cars were run upon the ground and on a straightaway track, 2⅛ miles would have slipped by at a speed a little better than the best railroad time. The machines require careful handling, too, and expert mechanics are required for the operation.

As to the effect of the race itself upon the audience, words can hardly describe it. From behind the stage come the reports and explosions from the exhausts which herald the approach of the spectacle. Gradually they grow faster in time and the note rises higher. The curtain flits skyward and at one side show the two cars, side by side. Gradually the nearest car draws away from its competitor as they pass across the stage, both drivers leaning over their steering wheels and enveloped in clouds of dust.

Down comes the curtain and up again in a moment and the breathing, snorting sinner is standing before the grand stand at Mineola, and the race is over.

Bob Dailey says it beats anything but the real cup race.

MARVIN HART WANTS FIGHT

LOUISVILLE. Dec. 5.—Marvin Hart thinks he can defeat either Tommy Burns or Jack O'Brien, contestants in the championship fight at Los Angeles. He has issued a challenge to either of them for a fight of twenty rounds or to a finish.

CANADIANS ENVIOUS, WRITES L. I. FLOWER

Writing on the question of barring American horses from the tracks in the Provinces next season, L. I. Flower has the following reasons for the agitation in his country:

"One cause of the anti-American agitation is that there undoubtedly exists in these Provinces a feeling against W. J. Furbush, of West Newton, Mass., who has campaigned horses very successfully down here for three seasons.

"At first this was just the result of that unforgiving spirit which success incites in the breasts of so many less fortunate. But it has now ceased to be entirely a matter of envy.

"Rightly, or wrongly, there are many who insist in connecting his name with what is now known as the 'Phoebon W. deal.' It will be remembered that St. John parties bought Phoebon W. from Mr. Furbush for the purpose of raffling him, and that pending his disposal S. A. Fowler raced the gelding in the Maratine free-for-alls, winning first in all except two.

"After over $1,300 worth of lottery tickets had been sold the government stopped their further sale. The parties who originally bought the gelding from Mr. Furbush, borrowed the money and the lender began to press for the repayment of what was still due. Here Fowler stepped in with a training bill against the horse to absorb the proceeds of the ticket sales, paid the balance of the loaned purchase—about $1,500, and skipped with the horse to Lewiston, Me.

"Some months later the gelding got back into Mr. Furbush's control. Now there are hundreds down here who say that he was the financial backer of Fowler in the deal, and that the latter merely 'pulled the chestnuts out of the fire.' They profess to know that Fowler had not the money of his own, that he was in that doubtful position described by the slang phrase, 'On his uppers.'

"Personally I know nothing about it any further than that Fowler, if he took proper care of the money won by Phoebon W., should have had enough, if not of his own, evidently used as his own, to go quite a long distance towards paying the balance against the 'horse.'"

Dogs and Dog Fanciers.

An observer at the numerous dog shows in years past has doped out the following for exhibitors to heed when before the judges: "Good manners are invaluable, as no judge wants to give a ribbon to a man he knows will swell up like a turkey cock, nor to a dog that sulks and has to be pulled about by the neck. No man should take a dog into the ring without having in his pocket a bit of boiled liver, as dogs are inordinately fond of it. Keep the dog in expectancy of getting the liver all of the time, but never give him any of it to eat while in the ring. If one has a strong, good-showing crackajack, jump into the ring with him the minute the former class is dismissed. This lets the judge see him at the best advantage, and the first impression is always the most important. On the other hand, if the dog is an indifferent shower, has poor ears and lack of carriage, or in any way not up to the standard, go into the ring late, and in the confusion and crowding the dogs' faults may be overlooked. A quiet and cool owner will make a confident and easy-to-show dog, while a fussy and nervous handler makes the same kind of dog."

* * *

They are telling a hot one about Sam Corey. It seems he teased Ed Beasley to let him take his Boston terrier stud dog, Buffer B., by Cracksman, on a business jaunt in the Back Bay district. Returning home, Buffer slipped his collar and was away in an instant. Now Corey a few days before had offered $250 for the dog, and to see that much money flying up the street was too much for his nerves. After Buffer ran Corey, hat in hand, yelling at the top of his voice to the spectators to catch the dog and he would pay the lucky person a five dollar note. This started a crowd of youngsters on the hot-foot, scaring the dog into a higher flight of speed. Seeing the dog was getting out of sight, Corey hailed a hack and spent the best part of two hours in scouring the neighboring streets, but no Buffer B. could be seen. Finally he gave up the search and returned to tell Beasley of his loss and to find out what he was going to do about it. The two were still dickering on the price of the dog three hours later when a telephone came that Buffer B. was located in a drug store out towards Roxbury. The afternoon's experience cost Corey $10, a hot old run of a mile and anxiety enough to last him a lifetime. No more trips with Buffer B. for him; Beasley can attend to that hereafter.

Will Back $500 Runabout Against Machine Costing Double

FORD MAKES NOVEL CHALLENGE

BY J. C. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The sensation of the Grand Central Palace show was sprung a few minutes before the closing hour last night. Then Henry Ford issued a challenge which if accepted will result in a test such as the industry has not seen before, and which will be interesting to public and makers alike.

In a word, Ford challenges any other runabout in the world, listed as less than $1,000, to a contest with his $500 runabout, and he proposes a series of tests which, if survived by any car, will give it a reputation that would sell the output. He insists that the car be a stock model right out of the factory; that it be taken apart and every part examined by a committee of the best engineers in the country; that the car be re-assembled and then subjected to the road tests, eight of which he outlines, and will run the full gamut of speed and hill-climbing contests and finally an endurance run to the death—until all but one car shall have broken down for good. He insists that these tests be carried out, as he expresses it, in the full lime-light, and that the loser is to sign an affidavit stating that the victorious car is the best car in the world for less than $1,000.

Tire Exhibition.

For the first time in connection with any automobile show one of the tire companies is giving a demonstration of how pneumatic tires are made by hand.

The arduous process has proved intensely interesting, and the booth is never without a large crowd of visitors, a complete tire for the vulcanization process being made every afternoon and evening.

Two announcements of interest to Bostonians were made to-day. The first was that the Linscott Motor Company had secured the agency of the well-known Wayne car, which it will carry in addition to the National and Reo lines, which have heretofore been its entire stock. The other was the announcement that Mr. Litchfield of the Motor Mart had secured the Boston agency for the Austin car, which, although somewhat new in the East, has made an excellent reputation for itself in other sections of the country.

An entirely Massachusetts product which is creating quite a favorable impression is the Berkshire, whose Boston representative, George H. Berg, has been on the ground since the opening of the exhibit. The car shows several strong improvements and carries with it a year's guarantee for one year free of labor and repair. There is the double set of ignition, each independent of the other, and yet can be used together. The engine's transmission has not been changed, the transmission, it being remembered, being one of the characteristics of this car. The multiple disc clutch is used and the oiling system is force with gravity. The double chain drive so prominent on the high powered car is used. Imported Hess-Bright bearings are used throughout. The car is equipped with a new radiator and is finished in a thorough and workmanlike manner, the nicety of detail being everywhere apparent.

C. F. Whitney of the Park Square Automobile Company is another busy Bostonian, he having all he can do with his Stoddard-Dayton and the famous Barliet. The cars which comprise both those exhibits are to be sent to Boston immediately upon the close of the exhibit.

The Stoddard-Dayton has already been spoken of in the BOSTON AMERICAN. The Berliet is bound to create some favorable comment owing to the excellency of its mechanical construction, as well as the thoroughness of its body finish. The car in particular is a seven passenger, with ample foot room in tonneau, and finished in an attractive red. It is 60 horsepower, four cylinder. The wheel base is 126 inches, with a 55-inch tread, worn and sector steering three brakes, acting on differential shaft and rear hubs. The frame is nickel steel, water cooled motor, cellular radiator, Berliet special carburet or mechanical force feed oiler driver.

L. B. Butler Happy.

One of the happiest men in the entire show is L. B. Butler of the Butler Motor Company, who handles the Cleveland and Pierce-Racine touring cars and the rapid truck. Since coming here he has sold three Cleveland speed cars and no less than nine Pierce-Racine cars. The truck he recently sold the New England Telephone Company is on exhibition in the commercial department, and will be delivered the first of next week. The Pierce-Racines now here will go to Boston, and their appearance carries out the claim of their maker that there is no shoddy, no frailty, nothing covered up. Everything is exposed to view, and it is readily seen that the best of material, both domestic and foreign, is used throughout the car.

Yesterday afternoon a complimentary dinner was tendered by the Haynes Motor Company to Dr. George H. Chapin and C. S. Michaels, who have recently finished an automobile trip from Chicago to New York in a Haynes car, for the purpose of surveying the route of the proposed National highway between those two cities.

CHICK STAHL WILL MANAGE THE AMERICANS

Charles S. Stahl has been selected as manager and captain of the Boston American baseball club for next season by agreement between himself and President John I. Taylor. The deal was made yesterday morning, and the new benedict, who is now at his home at Fort Wayne, Ind., accepted the terms offered, and will attend the meeting of the American League at Chicago a week from to-day.

Collins Is Out for Good.

When President Taylor was in Chicago the past week in conference with Ban Johnson, he ran down to Fort Wayne and spent a day with "Chick," and then had a talk about the position. Nothing definite on either end was really done, however, and the matter was left about as it was at the end of last season, although Stahl expected the appointment and Taylor felt that "Chick" was the man for the place.

When Stahl learned definitely and decidedly and emphatically that Collins was out for good, he talked business, and the money matter was quickly adjusted. Stahl will captain and be manager, and play the centre field, as he has since the American League placed a club here.

It is said that he will get the same salary that Collins received, although President Taylor would not say anything at all on the subject. He did say that with players and magnates Stahl was one of the most popular men in baseball, as was evidenced by the fact that whenever a deal was made with any other club in either the American or National Leagues, Stahl was asked for each and every time from the Bostons.

Taylor and Dovey Talk.

Yesterday President John I. Taylor of the Boston Americans called on Magnate Dovey and had a heart-to-heart talk.

The following players have signed for the team:

Drafted: Charles Wagner, Newark, N. J., second base; L. Shaw, Louisville, catcher; J. G. Killian, Burlington, Ia., pitcher. Purchased: Charles Pruitt, St. Paul, pitcher; Frank Oberlin, Minneapolis, pitcher; Floyd M. Kroh, Albany, pitcher; Joseph Knotts, Worcester, catcher; Chester Chadbourne, Worcester, outfield; Harry Lord, Worcester, third base.

BASKETBALL TO-NIGHT.

East Boston A. A. basketball team will play the strong Marblehead team, composed of some of the fastest players in the State at Lyceum Hall, East Boston, Wednesday evening, December 5. As neither team has lost a game it will be a tossup as to who will take the lion's share of the purse. East Boston will line up as follows: James Crowley, centre; Fred Corbett, right forward; Tim Desmond, left forward; John Brett, Back; George Burke, back.

LONG DISTANCE BIKERS READY FOR RACES

NEW YORK, Dec. 5.—The annual six-day bicycle race is only a few days away, and all of the riders who are scheduled to compete in it are in excellent condition. Each team is confident of success, and the different entrants are so evenly matched that it will be almost impossible for any pair to gain a lap on their competitors.

The foreign delegation of riders who are entered in the long contest is one of the strongest contingents of riders that ever crossed the ocean for a similar event, and they are confident of their ability to take the first prize back with them. The Americans are equally confident of retaining the title of champions, but there is extreme rivalry between the different sections. An immense crowd promises to be in attendance on Sunday night, when the first struggle for the lead of a lap will be made.

RESIGNS FROM DETROITS.

DETROIT, Dec. 5.—Business Manager M. J. Navin of the Detroit American Baseball League received a letter yesterday from Pitcher Frank Donahue, tendering his resignation as a member of the club, and announcing that he had purchased a hotel in Philadelphia and will give up baseball.

NEW PITCHER FOR THE CUBS IS SIGNED

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 5.—Pitcher William Kellum, star of the semi-professional baseball twirlers hereabout, was signed to-day by the Chicago National League Club for 1907. Kellum was formerly with the university at Watertown, Wis., and pitched splendid ball while there. He showed such good ball last season for the City League team that several minor league managers were after him, but he declined to sign. President Murphy of the Cubs made him a liberal offer to-day and he accepted.

He is twenty-one years of age, a shade over six feet tall and weighs 172 pounds. He is a right-hander. Local players are of the opinion that Kellum will make good.

HOCKEY PLAYERS TO MEET.

A meeting of captains and managers of all the ice hockey leagues of the New England Skating Association will be held Saturday, December 8, at 7:30 p. m. at the house of H. C. Durrell, No. 17 Dana street, Cambridge. The annual fee of $5 must be paid at this meeting. Applications for admission, together with any information, including copies of rules and constitution, may be obtained by applying to the corresponding secretary, No. 17 Dana street, Cambridge.

O'BRIEN ANGRY AT NEWMATCH

By Boston American Leased Wire

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 5.—To say that Philadelphia Jack O'Brien was sore when he heard that Tommy Burns had accepted the offer of Tom McCarey to fight Jack Johnson, the colored heavyweight champion of the world, for the world's title in the big men's division, is putting it mildly. In fact, Mr. Hagan was so obviously disturbed that while the matter was being brought to his attention he constantly shifted from one foot to the other with such evident nervousness that his high silk hat lost its equipoise and he did not even notice the disaster.

Furthermore, O'Brien turned out a flow of interview such as a man who moves in such high social circles as he does seldom resorts to. What disturbed O'Brien more than anything else was the audacity of his recent opponent in daring to take on a fight for the world's championship, and leaving him entirely out of consideration.

The whole trouble in O'Brien's mind was caused by the acceptance by Burns of Johnson's challenge to fight him. Tex Rickard, the Goldfield promoter, who is now in New York, had offered $25,000 for a finish fight between these two big fellows, and when Burns heard of it he wired to New York, saying that he would fight Johnson, but that he wanted the fight held at Tom McCarey's Pacific Athletic Club, in this city. Burns said in this connection:

"I think that a fight with Jack Johnson would be a big drawing card, and am therefore very anxious to get into the ring with the big fellow. O'Brien, I guess, is out of consideration now, because after our fight last week he said that he was not going to fight heavyweights any more.

Objects to Finish Fight.

"I do not like the idea of a finish fight with the negro at Goldfield, because I think that there would be just as much money in it for both of us to meet here in Los Angeles. I was speaking to Tom McCarey this morning, and he said that he would give a purse of $15,000 for a match between Johnson and myself. I have not yet heard officially that Johnson has accepted, but news comes from New York that Sam Fitzpatrick, his manager, is willing to have the fight here."

When Philadelphia Jack heard about the matter he was very angry and immediately started to hurl out challenges by the multitude, although he was evidently certain that Burns would not pay any attention to them. His language was liberally punctuated by remarks that would be unusual in the saloon of a prominent hotel, such as the Waldorf-Astoria in New York, where O'Brien said he once intended to stay for a week. He says:

"That big dub Burns is showing the white feather when he passes up a return fight with me to take on Johnson, a man who has really shown little ability when given a chance with a good man. Johnson is a laugh. Having been pretty well advertised through his hollering for a fight with Jeffries when he knew the big fellow had left the ring for good, he has sailed along on this hot air reputation. He has met Joe Jeannette, another colored boxer, a dozen times, more or less, and, although Jeannette is a fifth rater, he has failed to put him to sleep. In fact, Jeannette has given the 'colored champion' hard fights on each occasion.

"It probably looks pretty soft to Tommy Burns to have Johnson dished up to him with a fat purse on the side. If he were the fighter he says he is he would wait for the easy picking after he had squared accounts with me.

Dorothy Dix Warns Business Women Not to Try to Be the Whole Show, in the Fourth of Her

TALKS WITH WORKING GIRLS

THIS is the fourth of a series of five great articles by Dorothy Dix. She tells the working girl how to make a success of business life, and how to avoid the dangers that surround her. Every girl who has to earn her living should read them.

BY DOROTHY DIX

MY first bit of advice to the working girl is: Don't pity yourself because you have to work.

The second is: Play ball.

The third is: Don't have too many feelings.

The fourth is: Don't try to be the whole show.

The trouble with the woman who knows how to do anything is that she tries to do everything. If she has any ambition at all, it is the vaulting ambition that overleaps itself and falls on the other side in the junk of worn out articles.

One of the greatest obstacles in the pathway of the business and professional woman is that women have a way of going to pieces with nervous prostration just about the time they learn their trade, and busy men have no time to waste upon training assistants who are liable to develop invalidism just when they are most needed.

A few years ago a celebrated critic was looking over the work of the pupils of a famous artist. He remarked that that done by the girls in the class showed a much higher average of ability and talent than that of the boys, and he said something to the effect that the next great school of art would be feminine instead of masculine.

Don't Generalize

"NOT at all," responded the man who had had much experience of both girls and boys, "it is true that the work of these girls is marvellously brilliant, and it would be full of great promise for the future, except that I can prophesy almost to the year how long it will be before every one of them breaks down physically."

Now, the reason that this is true, and that the careers of women who essay any labor outside of their home are generally wrecked in the first quarter stretch, is not because women are so much less strong and able to work than men, but because they do not yet know how to work.

Men specialize. Women generalize. Women are never temperate in work. They are either prohibitionists or debauchees.

When a man's day's work is over he goes home, if he is a married man, to a dinner that has been cooked by some one else, or to a house that has been cleaned by other hands, and to be entertained by some one whose business in life is to make him happy and comfortable.

If he is not married he has his club, or at worst his room in a boarding house where the details of material life are lifted from his shoulders by those who are paid to do it.

Too Many Burdens

IF he has relatives dependent upon him, he considers, and they consider, that his full duty has been done when he turns over to them as much of his earnings as generosity or necessity prompts.

Nobody expects him to sit up half the night ministering to the wants and whims and unreasons of his aged parents. The parents themselves would be the first to say that poor Tom's rest mustn't be disturbed, because he has to work.

Contrast this with the lot of the average working woman. If she succeeds as well as a man she has to do not only as good work, but better work, for there is a prejudice that it is folly to deny against feminine labor. When she has done her full day's work she does not go home to a well-ordered house, where a good meal is waiting for her and there is somebody to coddle and pet her.

If she is a married woman, ninety-nine times out of a hundred she has the burden of the housekeeping or the care of servants, and the necessity of humoring a husband into good humor, to face the minute she slips her latch key into the door.

She escapes none of the burdens of the domestic woman, but adds to them the burdens of the working woman, and it is no wonder that she breaks down under them.

Concentrate

IF she is, as so many thousands of working women are, an unmarried woman, with the necessity of supporting her parents or other relatives, they do not let her off with supplying them with money. They demand her personal services as well.

They expect her to amuse and entertain them when they are dull, and to nurse them when they are sick, simply because they consider that it is a woman's work, forgetting that the woman who does a man's work is entitled to cut out a few feminine jobs.

Any daughter who treated her parents as even the most considerate son does would be considered a monster of filial ingratitude and lack of feeling.

Family burdens are a handicap to the working woman with which she cannot avoid being saddled, but there are certain other weights which impede a woman's progress and tend to break her down, and these I beseech you, little sister, to throw away.

First, don't try to be a professional woman, and a cook, and a laundress, and a dressmaker, and a milliner at the same time. Any one of these different lines is an occupation in itself, and is enough for any one woman to do. They can't be combined successfully.

Do as Men Do

UNLESS it is a case of absolute starvation, don't cook your own food if you have to work eight hours a day in an office or store. To get up and get breakfast, and wash dishes, and clean a room sends you to your work jaded and tired, and rushed, and cross, whereas a man goes to his labor fresh and rested, and in consequent good humor, which explains why he goes up in the office and you stay stationary.

Nor does a man sit up half the night trying to cut over his last year's coat into the mode of this, or let a little fullness into the sides of his trousers.

If he can't afford new ones, he wears what he's got, without giving himself nervous prostration over the subject, and that is the reason that he is still pegging away, doing good work, while the more talented woman who started out at his side is in a sanitarium.

Concentration is the real secret of success, little sister.

There are no Admirable Crichtons in these days who do everything well, or if there are they don't wear petticoats. You can't be a headliner in every direction, and the reason that women so seldom hit the bull's eye is because instead of saving all their energies for one big shot they dissipate them by taking a whack at everything that comes along.

Men have got a great deal to teach women, little sister, and if you will observe you will see that the business and professional man does not try to be the whole show. He attends to his work, and lets the housekeepers, and the tailors, and the hatmakers, attend to theirs.

Follow his example if you would keep from becoming a member of the Down and Out Club.

The woman who tries to do everything in business is using her ammunition on small game and the big black bear of physical collapse will claim her.

Prize of $2 Awarded Every Day for Best Letter to Santa Claus

Tell St. Nick What You Want Him to Bring Yourself and Your Folks and You May Win a Prize

HUNDREDS of little boys and girls are taking the chance offered by the BOSTON AMERICAN to write a letter direct to Santa Claus, telling what they want for Christmas for themselves and for their people. They have already sent in many splendid letters.

A prize of $2 will be given for the best daily letter written by boy or girl. To-day's prize-winner will be announced to-morrow. This gives the little folks opportunity to make a little Christmas money to help out their holiday expenses.

You know, Santa Claus is terribly busy. He means to give everybody just what they want, if he can, especially the boys and girls.

But he doesn't always know what people want. So, sometimes he gets the Christmas orders mixed, and a boy who wants a sled gets a box of tools, and the studious boy, who longs for a certain book, receives a pair of skates instead. Likewise, a little girl who doesn't care for dollies, may receive a dolly in spite of Santa's best intentions.

So you can help out Santa Claus a lot by writing to him through the BOSTON AMERICAN about what you want for yourself and for the family.

Don't forget about the family. Remember that papa deserves a present as much as you do. And so does mamma. Then there's grandma and grandpa, who are not too old to like Christmas gifts. You know brother and sister want presents, just as you do.

And how about the baby? Maybe the baby is so young that he or she hasn't had any Christmas yet. It's never too early to begin with baby's Christmas lessons. Maybe baby won't know what it all means. But don't be too sure. Babies know a lot. Some grown-ups say that baby knows things, but wouldn't tell them. You ask mamma if baby doesn't know a lot. Mamma will tell you all about it.

So don't forget baby, by all means.

Well, children, having thought out carefully all the things you want—and think you ought to have, and having also thought out with even more care the things you want the family to have, then write a neat little letter to Santa Claus. Make the letter as short as you can. Be sure to give your name, address and age. Write on one side only of the paper.

Address it to Santa Claus, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 82 Summer street, Boston.

What Boys and Girls Want for Xmas

ALL READY FOR IT

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

Would you be so kind as to send me that $100 automobile I saw in Siegel's. I saw the ad in your paper. Then father, mother and my little brother Royall can take a ride. You can ride it right down. We have a barn to keep it in.

ARTHUR O. BROWN, eight years,
No. 34 Kinnard street, Cambridgeport.

NEW SUIT FOR PAPA

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:

I would like a pair of skates, a box of writing paper, a bottle of cologne, some handkerchiefs and hair ribbons and a raincoat.

I would like to give papa a new suit of clothes, a new hat and a new overcoat.

I would like to give mamma a nice bottle of cologne, some handkerchiefs and a pair of angora gloves.

I would like to give grandpa a new suit of clothes.

I would like to give grandma a long fur cape, a bottle of cologne and a new bonnet.

I wish it would snow soon and Christmas would come. I will be glad to find something in my stocking from you, as you are a good old Santa Claus. Please, dear Santa, have on the back of my sled "Santa Claus" written in large gold letters, as I want it named after you for your kindness to me all these years. I hope you will have a nice time going around from chimney to chimney delivering things.

Skin Whiteners for Easy Use at Home

THE transparent or "peek-a-boo" blouse and the short sleeves are responsible for a good many tanned necks and arms, which, when it comes to the season of evening dress, are the cause of not a little contemplation.

There are, of course, various methods of restoring its pristine beauty to the burnt or freckled skin, or, at least, making it more presentable; and she to whom money is of no object need only go to a good beauty doctor to have all this done for her by a course of treatment.

But these are only the few, and the majority desire some simple, inexpensive treatment which they can carry out in the privacy of their own apartments.

The following are all harmless recipes, and quite easily managed by the owners of even very slender purses:

This season in Paris the carrot cure has been much favored, and carrot grated and allowed to stand in rainwater for about half an hour, then strained, has been used for whitening the skin, the water only being used.

The cucumber, however, is far more valuable for the purpose, also the lemon, while even the plebeian potato and the vulgar onion have been brought into the service of the beauty doctor.

The cucumber, however, possesses just enough of the bleaching properties to be harmless to the most delicate skin. Take the outer peelings with just enough of the white to contain a little juice, then bind strips of this on the throat, neck, forehead or tanned part, with the soft side toward the skin. Leave this on as long as possible, when a distinct improvement should be visible.

If preferred, crush the cucumber itself and use the juice to saturate bandages with.

Onion juice will take the sunburn from nose or cheek, though its odor may be a little overpowering.

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

CERTAINLY NOT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have known a young man for the past three months, and it was a case of love at first sight on my part. Now, this young man is very nice toward me, and I see him about two or three times a week, but I would like to know how I shall find out if he loves me or not, and if I should tell him of my love.

M. K.

NO, indeed, you must not tell him of your love until he asks you for it. You have known him such a short time that he probably is not yet sure enough of his love to tell you of it. Three months is a short time to know each other; don't be impatient.

NO HARM IN IT

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young man earning about $1,200 a year and am deeply in love with a nice girl. I have gone out with her and found her educated and refined. On short acquaintance I wrote her a letter proposing marriage, thinking that was the best way of declaring my love for her. Do you think I acted wrongly?

L. J.

THERE is certainly no harm in proposing by letter. The girl's reception of your proposal will prove whether you went about it the right way. If she accepts you it was all right; if she refuses you might try again, and this time do it by word of mouth.

THE HOUSE OF DOOM

By GEORGE BARRY BRONSON

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

"FINDING that I resisted his demands, he revealed to me the contents of that box which I had conveyed to my uncle. It had contained a French naval secret—a copy of the secret plans and specifications of the new French submarine boat then being built at Brest, for which the navy department had paid him $15,000, a draft for the amount being contained in my uncle's sealed letter. He had, he acknowledged, obtained the plans from a French naval lieutenant, and the pair had divided the proceeds. He was a spy, as well as a blackmailer. I asked what this had to do with me, whereupon he revealed to me an appalling fact which utterly stunned me. Till then I was in total ignorance of how entirely and completely I had fallen beneath his unscrupulous influence. But when he explained I saw in an instant that my future was hopeless; that escape was impossible. I was bound irrevocably to him and to his blackguard accomplices."

"And what did he reveal?" I inquired, anxiously, as her terrified eyes met mine.

"He pointed out, with brutal frankness, that although in America the French law could not reach him, yet in my own case it was different. The French Government could apply for my arrest and extradition for selling a State secret, because, in the eyes of the French law, I was a French subject, I having been born while my parents were visiting France, and had never taken out letters of naturalization as an American. I saw his intention. If unable to raise money to supply his needs he would give information against me in Paris and cause my arrest. He feared nothing for himself, he said, as he was a British born subject. I alone would suffer. What could I do in face of such a terrible eventuality?

A Fly in a Spider's Web

"He pointed out that although a person born of American parents abroad is under American law American, yet if wanted for a crime committed in the country of birth, the person may be arrested and extradited. I heard him to the end and believed that I was helpless in his hands. He had entrapped me, and I was as a fly in a spider's web. I saw my peril; therefore, in order to avoid scandal and arrest, I was compelled to send him money from time to time. Moreover, he also compelled me to furnish secret information about persons whom I met in society. For what purpose I could only guess—blackmail.

"Gradually I thus became a tool of Vickers and those fiends whom I felt were in association with him, although for some time the latter never betrayed themselves. This went on for nearly a couple of years, until Ellice Winsloe proposed marriage to me.

"I was driven desperate, always wanting to reveal to you the truth and ask your advice, Wilfrid, and yet always in fear lest you should turn your back upon me as an associate of a gang of blackmailers. One Autumn day, while motoring with Cynthia from New York up to visit the Beebys at Lake George, and without a chauffeur, I had a tire burst and a young man passing on a bicycle very kindly offered to change the cover for me. He was rather good-looking young fellow, and evidently a gentleman. A week later we met again at a party, when I discovered that his name was Arthur Rumbold, and that he was a son of the Rev. Herbert Rumbold, a well-known minister. He was a medical student and home for the vacation. We met again and accidentally at a dance in town; and although I am no more of a flirt than other girls I confess that he attracted me. In fact, after a couple of months he fell desperately in love with me, when suddenly I discovered a most amazing and alarming fact, namely, that he actually occupied furnished rooms in the same house where lodged Ralph Vickers. He knew the fellow well, he said, but was unaware, of course how he lived.

An Amazing Statement

"Meanwhile," she went on, her face slightly flushed by the effort of speaking, "Vickers was constantly pressing me for more money, threatening that if he did not get it he would hand me over to the French police. I was desperate, and at last one Winter's night, when walking with Arthur in a quiet street where we would not be recognized, I made a clean breast of my girlish foolishness and my present difficulties. He promised to at once help me, but it was three weeks afterwards when he wrote to me while I was at Bayside, saying that he had searched the rooms of his fellow lodger, had found my letters, and was bringing them to me. He had, he said, secretly watched Vickers and found that he was in association with Parham, Winsloe and Domville, in a great ruthless conspiracy of blackmail, and further that he had seen persons enter the house in Thirty-ninth street and never emerge again! Think of the effect this amazing statement had upon me! Winsloe and Domville were our guests at that moment, and the last-named was your most intimate friend.

"Three days previously I had received a letter from Vickers demanding that I should meet him in secret in the park, and I had replied, making an evening appointment. Then to Arthur I replied that I would meet him in the afternoon in Tennant Woods, a lonely spot where we had met before, telling him to bring the letters, and to explain everything to me. Well," she said hoarsely, after a pause, "we met. He told me of his suspicion of that house in Thirty-ninth street, and I at once saw to what dastardly use had been put the information regarding certain persons which these men had forced from me. But as he was telling me the truth a man rushed wildly out from the trees nd sprang between us, threatening to kill m if he uttered another word.

"He naturally defied his assailant, who in a moment drew a revolver and shot him dead before my eyes. Then, turning to me, the assassin said, calmly, 'Of this affair you know nothing, remember. Otherwise you'll quickly find yourself arrested for the French affair. Besides,' he added, 'you met the fellow here. He was your sweetheart and you've rid yourself of him. You see how the circumstantial evidence against you stands. Go. And you'd better leave Bayside as soon as you can.' Then he disappeared into the thicket while I stood half dazed, staring at the body of the man lying stark and dead before me."

"But who was the man who fired the fatal shot?" I demanded breathlessly.

She refused to answer.

WELCOME FOR NEW ORLEANS FLAG ASSURED

Realizing that resistance is useless, the Confederate Veterans of New Orleans, announce through Colonel T. W. Castleman of that city, that they will welcome "Bill" Berwin and the Confederate flag now in Boston City Hall, regardless of its authenticity as the emblem which floated over City Hall when that city was captured by the Union forces in 1862.

Wire Welcome Flag Back.

A dispatch from New Orleans says that the veterans believe that even if the flag is not the one which floated over City Hall it probably has other tender recollections associated with it, which make them anxious for its return.

George W. Young, vice-president of the Canal Louisiana Bank & Trust Company, has made investigations in regard to the flag which confirms the belief that it never saw the New Orleans City Hall. Mr. Young says the flag is undoubtedly the one mentioned in Butler's book, and the only one which he mentions, which was taken by him from the leader of a sewing-bee which had made it for presentation to Beauregard's troops.

Berwin Prepares for Visit.

In the meanwhile Alderman Berwin is making arrangements for the trip to his native heath which is to take place immediately after the city election.

Alderman Cauley has not yet announced the committee of five which is to accompany the flag and cement forever the bonds of fraternity between the North and South. He probably will not do so until after consultation with Mayor Fitzgerald.

WE MAKE NO PIANO TRUST AGREEMENTS

To Keep Up the High Prices on Trust Pianos

The Piano Trust has for years banked on your ignorance of the piano business to sell you (by you we mean the general public of which you are one) their pianos at a price all out of proportion to the cost of making the instruments. We have been telling you a few things that you should know before buying your piano. In our fight with the Trust we were obliged to make an exhaustive study of the piano business. It cost us lots of money, but we know a piano from the wood to the wareroom, and since we have been sharing our wisdom with you, you should profit by it, if only to the extent of coming up here and finding out for yourself whether or not we are telling the truth. Investigate our Big Sale beginning Monday, December 3d, and see pianos at prices that will open your eyes.

WIN THE LOVE OF A CHILD.

It Is the Best Way to Learn to Win the Respect of MEN.

Did you ever hear a mother, when her child had turned away from you in fear or contempt, say, with a significant nod of her head, "They know! The children know!"

If you have, you perhaps remember how foolish and humiliated you felt, and your conscience seemed to reproach you, although you felt that your attitude toward the child was entirely blameless.

MOTHERS, in instances like this, ARE WRONG. It pleases them to believe that their children instinctively know good men from bad men, and they are so interested in watching the little ones judge your character that they forget to be polite.

AS a matter of fact, A CHILD JUDGES you only BY SURFACE INDICATIONS. He may not like your looks, and if he doesn't he will stretch his hand out to his mother and wail if you try to take him.

He may see nothing objectionable in you, or become interested in one of your features or your necktie. In that case he will show his willingness to go to you, and you will feel a pleasant sense of gratification both at his good opinion and the mother's approval that it influences.

But you CAN win the love of children if you try, and it is the best exercise in learning to gain the respect of MEN, which everybody must have if he expects to amount to anything.

Although mothers could not be convinced of it, the child is not concerned with your moral character, nor can he determine it offhand.

He is interested in you only as regards your conduct toward HIM.

And to enjoy his favor that conduct must be consistently polite, thoughtful and TRUTHFUL.

Do not think that because a child is of few years he does not know when he is well treated, or that his FEELINGS can be ignored.

More than any one else, he demands COURTESY. He has pride which must not lightly be wounded, and he will give you his confidence only in exchange for yours.

Cultivate the acquaintance of any child, and you will find that his mind is open. He will give you genuine affection, devotion, and even admiration, in return for a very small share of your attention.

You must NEVER SPEAK ROUGHLY TO HIM. That will inflict suffering as keen as you would undergo were some one you loved to speak harshly to you.

NEVER LIE TO HIM. Once you have lied to a child, and he finds you out, you can never again have his respect. When his suspicions of your integrity have been aroused there is no possible way to allay them, for he has no time for explanations or excuses. Nothing but facts appeal to him.

You must, above all, BE PATIENT with his questions. He asks them in good faith, and BECAUSE HE WANTS TO KNOW THE ANSWERS, not to make conversation.

And if you once get the child's point of view, if you learn to approach the world as he does, taking nothing for granted because you have no superstitions or prejudices in your mind, but making original investigations of everything you do not understand, you will become A THINKING MAN.

That is better than a mere parasite on other men's opinions and ideas, which is what most people must confess themselves if they tell the truth.

IF YOU CAN PLEASE A CHILD YOU CAN PLEASE ANYBODY. With a five or six year old boy you must keep your disagreeable qualities constantly in the background.

If you do that with other people, you will soon outgrow them.

Vices waste away and die with disuse as speedily as do good habits.

SIMPLICITY, which a child demands in his friends, is a quality that men admire, whether or not they have it themselves. TRUTHFULNESS, POLITENESS and CHEERFULNESS will win their way in any company.

To be successful you MUST have them. If you lack the ability to please, you can make up that deficiency in no way so well as by studying to make children love you, and to KEEP their esteem once you have won it.

No, We Do NOT Need a War.

And All the "War Whispering" Is Idle Speculation.

People entertain themselves a great deal lately by discussing the possibility of a WAR WITH JAPAN and expressing their opinions of the probable results in such an event.

Fortunately such a possibility DOES NOT EXIST AT PRESENT, NOR IS IT LIKELY TO EXIST.

This country has no grounds for any quarrel with Japan, nor have the people of Japan any real grievance against the United States.

That either government would be so foolish as to try to seek an excuse for attacking the other is too absurd to disquiet any sensible man or woman.

The United States has never fully recovered from the horrors of the Civil War, which taught the people of fifty years ago a terrible thorough lesson in WHAT WAR MEANS.

Japan, for her part, has lately gone through an exhausting struggle with Russia. The partial victory she won was dearly paid for, and the little country, besides losing thousands of its bravest men, is saddled with an indebtedness that will require scores of years to clear away.

JAPAN DOES NOT WANT ANOTHER WAR. Only a long series of insults by the Russian Government provoked her people to arms.

Those insults were put upon Japan by the foolish, weak-minded nobles of Russia, NOT BY THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE.

In the United States war will not be declared except in response to a general popular demand for it. We have no silly aristocracy to force us into a policy of foreign aggression, and compel the people to support it with their lives.

WE DO NOT WANT A WAR WITH JAPAN, and we will have no such war.

We are proud of our great navy, of course, but we are chiefly proud of it because it provides AN INSURANCE AGAINST WAR.

It is an agreeable mental exercise to calculate the possible results of an engagement between our newest battleship and the Satsuma, Japan's great vessel. But it is idle. The WAR WHISPERINGS we hear ALL GROW OUT OF that kind of IMAGININGS.

Serious war talk there is none. This country has many problems of extreme difficulty to settle in the next few score of years, and it needs a long period of ABSOLUTE PEACE to deal with them properly.

Rockefeller and Mince Pie

By Morton Birge

THE country's saved for
You and me, for
Johnny Rockefeller he
Has eaten pie, the Fearful mince—a
Thing he hasn't ven-
Tured since he
Was a child and ceased
To take
Such chances of a
Tummy ache.
'Twas on Thanksgiv-
Ing Day John D.
Performed the deed. He said
"Gimme
Some pie—yes, mince. I
Tell you I shall
Surely eat it
If I die."
The mince John D. did
Reckless eat. He did
Survive the Hardy feat.
For what he ate
Did not oppress
Or give him any
Indiges-
Tion. Ain't it great
For else he might
Have riz in pain and
Smote a smite—
Dyspeptic smite—
On the finan-
Cial life of his
Poor fellow-man.
You bet I'm glad it
Didn't make
For Johnny D.
A
Tummy ache.

DO you know what moves the tides
As they swing from low to high?
'Tis the love, love, love
Of the moon within the sky.
Oh, they follow where she guides,
Do the faithful-minded tides!

Do you know what moves the earth
Out of Winter into Spring?
'Tis the love, love, love
Of the sun, the mighty king.
Oh, the rapture that finds birth
In the kiss of sun and earth!

Do you know what makes sweet songs
Ring for me above earth's strife?
'Tis the love, love, love
That you bring into my life.
Oh, the glory of the songs
In the heart where love belongs!

Education for Business and for Citizenship

By Prof. Frank Parsons, Ph. D.

THE dominant note in the great education congress which held its sessions in Tremont Temple last week was the need of better training for the actual business of daily life and for civic duties.

President Eliot of Harvard, for over thirty years the head of the leading university on the Atlantic coast, said that the mere memory work so prevalent in our schools is the poorest kind of education. It does not train the character nor the power of performance.

More and more emphasis is being placed on vocational training. Doing things develops character and power.

An individual's faculty and capacity of action, including mental action, marks the limit of his service to society and of his happiness.

President David Starr Jordan of Leland Stanford, the head of the greatest educational institution on the Pacific Slope, said that the true object of education is not mere culture, but efficiency, power of service.

The twentieth century is strenuous, complex and democratic. We must fit young men and women to cope with the economic and civic problems of modern life and master them. There is plenty of room for efficient workers. Character and efficiency bring high wages. Every virtue has its market value, and every vice is taken out of your salary.

Your first duty is to live in such a way that the man you ought to be may become actual. And it is for education to give you the fullest opportunity to fulfil that duty.

Secretary Martin of the Massachusetts State Board of Education said that experience in some form of productive industry is the most important element in intellectual and moral training.

President E. B. Andrews of Nebraska University, President Thompson of Ohio State University, Mr. Alexander of the General Electric, Mr. Vanderlip of New York, Mr. Alfred Mosely, the famous English authority, and many other noted speakers emphasized the necessity of training for work by means of work, and for citizenship by the exercise of self-government in school.

Mr. John Golden, president of the United Textile Workers of America, said the trade unions were strongly in favor of the right kind of industrial education, not the sham, get-an-education-in-a-minute kind that is instituted for the profit of the educator, but the thorough training that produces real efficiency in place of mere conceit, and is honestly established for the service of the worker and the development of industry. To secure such education, he said, the unions would gladly co-operate with employers and the public.

The great wave of enthusiasm for the training of character and efficiency through civic and industrial education, of which this congress was an expression and which in varying forms is sweeping over this country, and, in fact, throughout the civilized world, is one of the most promising among the giant influences that are moulding our life to-day.

In it lies the fundamental hope of that deep regeneration which only the wise moulding of a fresh, unspoiled generation can secure.

There is nothing so easy but that it becomes difficult when you do it with reluctance. TERENCE.
